MOTORCYCLE-AUTO CRASH TAKES LIFE

Hubert Tennent Is Fatally Injured and Companion, Raymond Dye, Is in Serious Condition.

Two persons were killed, three more were critically injured and four were less seriously hurt in auto accidents in Atlanta Tuesday. One man met death when he ran headlong into the side of a moving automobile and another died in a motorcycle-autobile crash.

His haste to catch a street car early Tuesday night resulted in instant death to W. W. Perry, of 1113 Stewart avenue, who was nearly decapitated when he crashed into a moving automobile while hurrying across Grant street near Millidge avenue in an attempt to catch a northbound trolley.

According to the driver of the car, J. C. McCarthy, of 399 Georgia avenue, and a companion of the victim, S. H. Henderson, of 741 Humphries street, Perry was killed when he drove his head through the glass door of the automobile while running at top speed across the street.

Henderson told officers that he and Perry were walking along Grant street, toward Millidge avenue, when the victim saw the street car approaching. With a hurried word of good-bye Perry darted from the curb just in time to crash into the automobile. Henderson stated his opinion that Perry did not see the automobile which was coming from behind him as he left the curb until he had run into it.

McCarthy stated that he was driving southward on Grant street at a moderate speed and his first intimation of the tragedy was the crashing of the glass as the running man struck the door.

With his head nearly severed from his body the victim was rushed to Grady hospital, where doctors stated that he probably had been killed instantly.

As accounts of the accident furnished officers by Henderson and McCarthy were substantially the same, the driver was not detained and no case was made against him.

Perry, who was 45 years of age, is survived by his widow, two sons, Edwin K. and Clayton Perry; a daughter, Dorothy Perry; his mother, Mrs. E. R. Perry, of Macon; two sisters, the Misses Hattie and Celia Perry, of Macon, and five brothers, Harvey and J. L. Perry, of Shady Dale; Oscar and E. F. Perry, of Kelly, and Marvin Perry, of Boston, Mass. He was associated with the Broyles retail stores and was a member of the Shady Dale Methodist church. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson and Son.

Hubert Tennent, of 1249 Albemarle avenue, was fatally injured and Raymond Dye, of the same address, was critically hurt early Tuesday afternoon when the motorcycle on which they were riding crashed with a motor car at the intersection of Moreland avenue and Boulevard drive. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Henslee and their four children were in the car.

SOCIAL REGISTER LISTS CHAMPION AS WIFE'S HUBBY

New York, November 20.—(AP)—The name of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, appears in the last edition of the Social Register, listed under the maiden name of his wife, the former Miss Mary J. R. Lauder.

The listing, which follows the name of Tunney's mother-in-law, is entered in the register thus:

"Miss Lauder, Mary J. R. (Late Geo. J. R.) married at Rome, Tunney, Mr. James J., October 3."

HOOVER CHANGES ROUTE OF VOYAGE

Four Countries Omitted and Dates of Visits to Others Altered; To Fish Today.

BY CLARENCE DUBOSE, Associated Press Staff Writer.

On Board U. S. S. Maryland, En Route to Panama, Honduras, November 20.—(AP)—President-elect Herbert Hoover will make his first good will call next Sunday, in Honduras and Salvador, landing the same day at both Panama, Honduras, and La Union, Salvador, 10 miles distant.

The west coast itinerary announced today changed the tentative plans announced previously. Panama, Guatemala, Colombia and Bolivia were omitted from the amended schedule.

Nicaragua will be the third instead of the first call, Hoover landing at Corinto November 26, the day after his Honduras and Salvador stops. The amended west coast itinerary provides for other visits in the following order: Fourth, Costa Rica, landing at Puntarenas November 27; fifth, Guayaquil, Ecuador, November 30; sixth, Callao, Peru, December 3; seventh, Valparaiso, Chile, December 7.

Chile the itinerary provides for crossing the continent by train for a visit to Buenos Aires. Visits to Uruguay and Brazil will be scheduled after the Chile trip.

The proposed visit to Guatemala was abandoned because of difficult landing conditions. Loss of time involved in visits to Panama, Colombia and Bolivia, because of the devious route Hoover must travel to get there, necessitated their elimination from the itinerary.

Mr. Hoover conferred extensively with Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher regarding the itinerary after boarding the battleship Maryland. The president-elect gave much thought to the problems presented by his route, because of a desire to accept the invitations which have come from every Latin-American country, although he realized the impossibility of so extending his trip.

Mr. Hoover today manifested much interest in the small gun practice, which involved the turning of the great turret on the Maryland. This afternoon, when the battleship sailed, all sounded for practice, the president-elect also watched every maneuver closely.

All members of the Hoover party were assigned to lifeboat stations, but the practice did not involve their actually going into the lifeboats.

Although Ambassador Fletcher and some others appeared in white suits today, Mr. Hoover, observing the custom of the sea, decided to wait until the Maryland is further south before donning such a costume. Today he wore a blue serge suit, with white shoes.

The weather today was considerably warmer, but was not yet completely tropical. Most of the day the mountains of Lower California, or an island off the mainland, were dimly visible from the Maryland. The battleship kept from 50 to 80 miles off shore.

When Hoover appears on deck the sailors and petty officers find some of the most interesting sights of the trip.

U. D. C. TO RETURN DEED TO MOUNTAIN TO SAM VENABLE

Decision by Local Chapter Rescinds Its Action in Authorizing Litigation To Recover Site.

By a unanimous vote, members of the Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Tuesday afternoon adopted a recommendation of its executive board that the chapter return to Sam H. Venable and associates a reversionary interest in a part of Stone Mountain used for carving the Stone Mountain Memorial and recently deeded to the chapter by Mr. Venable and associates.

This action by the chapter as a whole means in effect that the recent action of the chapter, in authorizing legal proceedings to be brought against the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association for recovery of the property in question, will be rescinded. The recommendation of the executive board provides that the Atlanta chapter turn over its reversionary title to the Venable so that the latter may proceed in whatever manner they see fit toward the recovery of the property from the memorial association.

All Claims Surrendered.

It was made clear in the recommendation adopted that the Atlanta chapter desires to surrender in full its claims to the property through the reversionary deed and makes it clear that the chapter shall disclaim any title to the property. It authorized the board of trustees for this property, composed of about sixty prominent women, to return the property to the grantors. This plan of action was approved by the unanimous vote of those present at the meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the clubhouse in Juniper street. Mrs. John A. Perdue, past president, presided at the session in the absence of Mrs. D. E. Stevens, who is in Houston, Texas, attending the general convention of the organization.

It was decided by the executive board and approved by the meeting Tuesday that it would be "impracticable" for the Atlanta chapter to institute legal proceedings for the recovery of the Stone Mountain property because of the large number of trustees named. The chapter, at its meeting held October 30, had authorized the trustees to bring proceedings with members of the Venable family to recover of the property and this action was rescinded by the action taken at the session Tuesday.

Deed Given by Venable.

Several months ago, Mrs. Venable, together with Mrs. Walter Gordon Roper and Mrs. C. V. Orme, co-owners of Stone Mountain, gave to the Atlanta chapter a reversionary deed in the memorial property. This deed was based on the ground that the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association had failed to carry out certain stipulations of a contract when it was given.

Congress Expected To Take Steps To Destroy "Un-American" Method of Prison Supervision.

CRITICISM AROUSED AMONG SENATORS

Violation of Federal Statutes Hinted in Methods Used To Plant Undercover Agents in Prisons.

BY BASIL MANLY.

Washington, D. C., November 20.—(Special).—Great interest has been aroused in Washington by the revelation of Representative Thomas M. Bell, of Georgia, member of the congressional committee on prison conditions, that the department of justice, under the direction of Assistant Attorney General Mabel Walker Willebrandt, has instituted a spy system in all federal prisons.

This introduction of what are regarded as Russian police methods has aroused considerable criticism among senators and congressmen and it is expected that when congress meets steps will be taken to destroy this un-American method of supervising federal institutions.

It is probable also that an investigation will be instituted by the judiciary committee of the senate to ascertain whether or not the department of justice has violated the federal statutes in the methods which it has used to plant undercover agents in the prisons under assumed names. The declaration of Representative Bell that Assistant Attorney General Willebrandt has written a letter authorizing the policy of placing spies in all of the federal prisons was received here with amazement. Official Washington was prepared to learn that such tactics had been resorted to in special cases but cannot yet understand how an official document authorizing the use of spies as a fixed policy could be dictated.

Those who are familiar with the rules and regulations governing all federal prisons are familiar with the fact that the department of justice has a long history of using spies in the prisons. This has been a matter of common knowledge for many years. The department of justice has a long history of using spies in the prisons. This has been a matter of common knowledge for many years.

GAINS OF $50 SCORED BY MANY

Ticker More Than Two Hours Late as Frantic Officials Seek To Speed Up Wires.

BY STANLEY W. PENOSIL, Associated Press Financial Editor.

New York, November 20.—(AP)—With four high-priced issues skyrocketing $35 to $50 a share, and at least 50 others climbing $1 to $10 a share to new high records, Wall street today witnessed the wildest stock market in its history. The violence of the advance scared many small traders and investors into liquidating their stocks, with the result that many of the gains were cut down, and a number of issues showed losses of $1 to $5 a share.

Total sales set a new high record at 6,811,900 shares, which contrasts with the previous record of 6,714,000 established last Friday.

SOUTH FACES ERA OF BRISK BUSINESS ATLANTA WARNED TO IMPROVE FIELD

Speakers at Southeastern Foreign Trade Conference Paint Glowing Picture of Dixie's Future.

Opportunity is knocking at Atlanta's door.

In nearby Mexico and Latin America, in far-off Europe, the Orient and Africa there is trade and commerce awaiting. "Go and get it," speakers urged Tuesday at the second annual Southeastern Foreign Trade conference at the chamber of commerce, Atlanta and southeastern industry and business listened attentively and there was born a new determination to sell southeastern products in every nook and corner of the globe.

More than 200 leading business and commercial men from every southeastern state are in attendance at the conference, the opening day of which was climaxed Tuesday night with a banquet for and an address by Assistant Secretary for Aviation William P. McCracken, Jr., of the department of commerce, at the Atlanta Biltmore.

The day sessions were conducted in the chamber of commerce assembly room. The program will be concluded today, the chief feature of its final phase being a luncheon at the Hotel Ansley with General A. C. Daulton, vice president of the shipping board and managing director of the governmental world-wide shipping system, the principal speaker.

Trade Future Outlined.

One by one Tuesday the conference speakers outlined to this section's business men the opportunities for trade in foreign countries, opportunities to sell each and all of the district's products.

At the morning session there were addresses of welcome by Governor L. G. Hardman and Mayor I. N. Ragsdale and a number of other leading citizens. Then the speakers started to paint their composite picture, each one filling in what the others had left untouched until at nightfall there was in the minds of the conference a vast view of ships and docks and railroads, thousands of miles away, and coffers of gold and unprecedented prosperity at home.

Dr. Libby Speaks.

First on the list was Dr. Arthur Libby, professor in political economy and foreign trade at Oglethorpe university, who drew the general background for the picture others were to paint. Dr. Libby spoke on "Some Aspects of the Present Value and Future Permanence of Our Foreign Trade." The world is Atlanta's market, Professor Libby said, citing

VESTRIS LEAKED IN HEAVY SEAS, 2 WITNESSES SAY

Nothing Ever Done to Stop Flow of Water, Saloon Mate, Waiter Reveal at Inquiry.

New York, November 20.—(AP)—A saloon mate and a waiter from the crew of the steamer Vestris testified today at the federal inquiry into the sinking of the ship with the loss of more than 100 lives that it always leaked at ports and doors when there was heavy weather, and that nothing was ever done about stopping the flow of water.

Previous witnesses have testified that on its last trip sea water poured forward in the customs house that the Vestris through these ports and doors so fast that the combined efforts of the steam pumps and bucket brigades of seamen could not keep up with it.

The testimony of the saloon mate and waiter came only an hour or two after two inspectors of the United States steamboat inspection service of the department of commerce had testified at a separate inquiry going forward in the customs house that they had inspected the Vestris a few days before it sailed and found it seaworthy in all respects.

The inspectors of hulls mentioned in particular the ports and doors through which other persons say the sea poured in streams, and said he had found them tight.

Defects Reported.

One of today's witnesses who told of the leakage, which both asserted was customary whenever the ship struck a storm, said he had reported the defects in writing, telling the head officials of the line that the ports and doors needed to be reworked. The other said he had made no report, as the leaks were a matter of common knowledge. Both said that no repairs had been made prior to the sinking of the Vestris, which sank off the Virginia coast yesterday.

The other witnesses today were Gilbert Ford, the negro chief fireman, and Frederick Sorenson, a ship's captain, who was going south in a second-class passenger on the Vestris to recuperate from an illness.

Ford told of water pouring into the stoke hole from an ash hopper, where the ship's ash was stored, and sea water so they could be pumped out through one side. He said that the hopper overflowed because the top of this hopper was not fastened, the screws being rusted so that they were useless.

Captain Denies Interview.

Sorenson told in considerable detail of the events leading up to the founding of the ship, while the passengers in lifeboats and in the water waited through long hours for rescue. He also reported a denial made at the earlier session in the customs house of newspaper stories in which he was quoted

ROTHSTEIN CASE STILL IRKS MAYOR

Walker To Study Effects Before Police Shake-Up in Midst of Important Inquiry.

New York, November 20.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker announced today that, while he was not satisfied with the work done by detectives in attempting to solve the slaying of Arnold Rothstein, before making changes in the police department he must consider their possible effects in the midst of an important investigation.

The Brooklyn Eagle published a Philadelphia dispatch saying a staff reporter had traced George McManus, who was charged with slaying Rothstein, to that city and had learned his every move.

McManus, who police believe may have been an eye-witness to Rothstein's slaying, the Eagle's dispatch says, checked out of the Hotel Stensson in Philadelphia yesterday, after attending the Penn-Columbia game and visited with a business friend in the Hotel Venig Saturday. The Eagle reporter says he has learned where McManus is going from Philadelphia, where he expects to stop and whom he plans to meet.

The private safe of Rothstein, in which police hoped to find clues to his murder, is to be returned to the city and to his relatives, in connection with gambling, narcotic and other underworld activities, was opened by supreme court, investigators said.

JOHN BARRYMORE, MISS COSTELLO TO MARRY SOON

Los Angeles, November 20.—(AP)—John Barrymore, noted actor of the stage and screen, filed notice here today of intention to marry Dolores Costello, also well known on the screen. The date of the marriage was not announced. Barrymore gave his age as 41 and Miss Costello gave hers as 22.

The romance began several years ago when they played leading roles together in a motion picture. Miss Costello is the elder daughter of Maurice Costello, veteran of the movies and a sister of Helene, well known actress.

$158,232 IS GIVEN IN CHEST APPEAL

32 Per Cent of Allotted $480,000 Subscribed as Second Day of Drive Comes to Close.

Addition of $32,502 to the Community Chest fund as reported at the daily luncheon Tuesday raised the total subscribed for Atlanta's charities to $158,232, or approximately 32 per cent of the allotted $480,000.

"The response to the appeal of the workers has not been as ready as we hoped, but we have confidence," H. M. Atkinson, president of the Community Chest, declared at the conclusion of reports from team leaders.

The canvassers are out in greater numbers than ever before. Mr. Atkinson continued, "They are doing splendid work and we believe that before the week is out the citizens of Atlanta will cooperate with them to a greater degree."

Workers attended the luncheon to the number of more than 450 and pledged their time to a completion of this campaign. A brief series of talks was made by campaign leaders and reports were given by the minutes as present.

The ambition of the campaign organization is to have the fund made up of no less than 30,000 subscribers, and to that end workers are being encouraged in the task of soliciting as many persons as possible. Last year the fund was made up of 25,000 subscribers in spite of herculean efforts on the part of the campaigners the fund was not completed and the work of the 39 volunteer canvassers was not finished.

Want Wide Representation.

"We want the Chest to be made representative of the people of Atlanta," Henry C. Heinz, general chairman, stated. "Contributions in the past have been made by approximately 6 per cent of the population and we feel that the Chest is a community need, the expenses of which should be borne by everyone able to give. We especially urge all citizens of Atlanta to give according to their means. No subscription is too small."

The meeting Tuesday was marked by the enthusiasm of the workers and by the splendid showing made by the woman's division, which already has raised a large per cent of its quota.

Songs brightened the serious character of the meeting and several brief addresses were made which stressed the importance of the Community Chest.

Co-Chairmen Speak.

Comments on the campaign were expressed by Co-Chairmen Baxter Maddox, Roy LeCraw and by Mr. Heinz. Mr. Atkinson spoke briefly.

King Winter Holds South In Icy Grasp

Atlanta's Temperature Expected To Drop to 30 Degrees This Morning.

Prediction of the local office of the United States weather bureau that Atlanta's early winter today will be greeted by a temperature of 30 or 32 degrees, is in line with reports from all over the southland to the effect that winter, at last, has a firm grasp on this section.

Acting Chief A. H. Scott, of the local bureau, says that the maximum temperature for today probably will be around 50 degrees. Clear and sunny skies will prevail.

Snow in Carolina.

Snow was falling over the mountains of western North Carolina, while all along the Atlantic seaboard states, where Sunday temperatures climbed to 80 and above in many places. Tuesday night the mercury was shooting downward into the thirties with freezing weather in prospect by this morning.

Likewise the Mississippi valley states, except those portions lying close to the gulf were prepared for ice and killing frosts. Throughout the day a boisterous northerly wind swept the south, keeping temperatures down to 50 and below and nightfall found the readings showing steady declines.

While snow fell steadily at Asheville, N. C., it was not reported to have reached the mountains.

IS FOURTH DEFEAT FOR GOVERNMENT OUT OF SIX CASES

Judge Rules Jury Need Decide Only Question of Whether a Quorum Was at Hearing.

HOOR IS CONSUMED IN DELIBERATIONS

Defendant Hugs Three Women Members of Jury Clearing Him of Final Charge.

Washington, November 20.—(AP)—Reaching a verdict in less than an hour, a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court today acquitted Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, of charges of perjury, which followed his appearance last February before the senate public lands committee.

Frankly and exuberantly happy at the outcome of the trial which stretched through a week and a half, the oil man with his chief of counsel, Frank J. Hogan, at his side, was surrounded by a throng of friends offering their congratulations. He thanked the members of the jury individually and bestowed upon each of the women who served on the panel a hearty hug.

The case was given to the jury at 2:30 p. m. with instruction from Justice Jennings Bailey to consider first of all whether there was a quorum present at the session of the senate committee at which Stewart gave his testimony. This point was the subject of a bitter dispute from the very beginning of the trial.

The minutes of the committee were introduced into evidence by United States Attorney Leo A. Rorer, who handled the government's case, with the contention that they reported eight members of the committee's 15 to have been in attendance and that the meeting, therefore, was valid.

This was disputed by Hogan, with the assertion that of the eight reported to be present, only five were actually elsewhere and were included in the roll call by a telephone request to the clerk of the committee. Witnesses for the defense testified that at no time were more than five members of the committee actually in attendance.

In his instructions to the jury, Justice Bailey stated that before a meeting of a senate committee can become valid a majority of its members must be actually and physically present. Witnesses for the defense testified that at no time were more than five members of the committee actually in attendance.

He told the jurors to settle the quorum question first of all, if they could.

INCREASE IS SEEN IN HOME BUILDING
BY G. E. MCKINNIS

An increase in home building and a resultant boom in building and loan association business in the south was predicted in a speech made Tuesday noon by George E. McKinnis, of Shawnee, Okla., head of the research department of the United States League of Building and Loan associations, at a luncheon given in his honor at the Biltmore hotel.

Mr. McKinnis, who stopped in Atlanta Tuesday morning while en route to the Jacksonville convention of the Florida Building and Loan association, is being entertained here by the Georgia Building and Loan association and its officials. The luncheon at the Biltmore was given by the association and the president, Horace C. Russell, presided over the program. The speaker based his predictions of future growth upon two factors. In the first place, it was pointed out, the building and loan business in this section is relatively unexploited and the people are just now beginning to realize the possibilities offered by it. In the second place, the seriousness with which the average southern city dweller regards home ownership will react to the advantage of the associations and to those persons who wish to own their own homes, Mr. McKinnis explained.

1,700 NEW PHONES
INSTALLED HERE IN NINE MONTHS

Atlanta's rapid growth and continued prosperity are strikingly shown by the fact that 1,700 new telephones were installed in Atlanta homes and business places during the past nine months, according to figures recently made public by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company. This advance is the greatest ever made during a like period, it was announced by officials of the company. This addition brings the total of phones now in use in the city to 62,370, which are represented by 51,298 listings in the directory recently issued. Subscribers are urged by officials to consult this new directory before calling even the most familiar numbers as the great increase in the number of subscribers has necessitated the changing of a large proportion of numbers. By consulting the new book much trouble in the way of "wrong numbers" may be avoided by subscribers, it was pointed out.

But Two Approved
By Mayor Pro Tem

Mayor Pro Tem. Claude Ashley Tuesday approved all papers sent to him by city council, with the exception of one providing for establishment of a paymaster's department for the city government and another calling for a short stretch of street work. Mr. Ashley will hold the paymaster's paper for the attention of Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, who will return to the city the latter part of the week, at the request of the mayor. The aldermanic board Monday afternoon approved the measure after it had been held up on motion of reconsideration filed by Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth ward, who charged it would be a useless expense.

TALLULAH BANKHEAD TO WED ITALIAN COUNT

Alabama Actress Will Not Leave Stage, It Is Said.

London, November 20.—(AP)—Announcement was made today that Miss Tallulah Bankhead, American actress who is at present starring in "Her Cardboard Lover," is engaged to marry Count Anthony de Boscari.

The prospective bridegroom is connected with a number of extensive financial enterprises in the city. "We are going to be married shortly," Miss Bankhead said today. "We don't even know ourselves the exact date. In any case it will be a very quiet wedding."

Count Boscari said that Miss Bankhead would not leave the stage after their marriage, adding "she has her career as I have mine, and we will both carry on."

Miss Bankhead, whose home is in Alabama, has played on the London stage for several years, and has virtually adopted England as her home.

Chicago, November 20.—(AP)—Count Anthony de Boscari, whose engagement to Miss Tallulah Bankhead, American actress, was announced in London today, was divorced last month by Countess Josephine de Boscari, the former Miss Josephine Fish, Chicago society woman. The countess charged the Italian nobleman with infidelity.

MISS BANKHEAD IS ALABAMA GIRL

Huntsville, Ala., November 20.—(AP)—Miss Tallulah Bankhead, whose engagement to Count Anthony de Boscari, was announced today in London, is the daughter of Congressman W. B. Bankhead, of the tenth Alabama district.

Miss Bankhead also is the granddaughter of former United States Senator J. H. Bankhead, and was named for her grandmother, the former Tallulah Brockman. Both families were prominent in the pioneer life of this state.

Miss Bankhead spent her early childhood in Alabama, but in recent years has devoted her time to her career as an actress in London.

Her parents' home at present is at Jasper, Ala.

SHORT LEAF PINE MILLS AT MACON CLOSE SATURDAY

Macon, Ga., November 20.—(AP)—Closing of all short leaf pine mills operated by the members of the Roofer Manufacturers' club on Saturday afternoon as a first step in a curtailment program was agreed upon at the November meeting of that organization here today.

As a second step, members present were in favor of closing the mills from December 22 to January 2, over the Christmas holidays, but it was decided to wait until the next meeting of the club in Columbus on December 11 before taking final action on that proposal.

The club members declared that they considered it unprofitable to produce roofer, which are similar to No. 2 common pine, at less than $21 and $22 per thousand feet.

The chairman, E. M. Thurston, of Thomaston, said the lumber industry of Georgia was in better shape than the peach industry.

"Insurance companies have withdrawn from the peach deal," he said, "refusing to further insure the peach crop. Peach growers are getting desperate. In my county 25 of them have been arrested by federal officers

Star of Screen Makes Good In Leading Role on Stage

MISS DAW MASTERS DIFFICULT PART

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

It's far easier for a star of the speaking stage to enter the motion picture field and succeed than it is for a star of the pictures to step out on the stage and make good in a speaking role and the authority for this statement is none other than a young woman who has tried both games, Miss Marjorie Daw, leading woman of the super-thriller "Dracula" now playing a week's engagement at the Erlanger theater in Atlanta.

Miss Daw has spent the last six weeks mastering a difficult role and has more than made good on the speaking stage if the opinion of those who witnessed her work here is worth anything but she says she is "just a beginner" in this line of theatrical work and hopes to use the experience she is now obtaining in future "talking pictures" which are just now coming into such popularity.

"It is my belief that the screen actor who desires to take up a stage career should not attempt to play the same kind of roles on the stage that they have been playing on the screen," Miss Daw said Tuesday. "By this I mean a star who has been playing leading parts in pictures should not expect to step right on the stage and play leading parts. Such stars should begin in roles of lesser importance or of a kind which will give them the rudimentary training which is of so much importance to success on the stage."

Miss Daw says the situation is much the same as one where an athlete who plays football with marked skill suddenly takes up baseball without any previous experience. He is still an athlete but is in an entirely different kind of game.

"The development of the talking pictures will, of course, turn the eyes of the screen stars to the spoken drama," Miss Daw said. "But I do not believe they can succeed by simply taking lessons in elocution. There are many other important things about the spoken drama beside the mere ability to enunciate clearly and the best way to perfect one's self as a speaking star is to get the actual experience on the speaking stage."

Miss Daw has enjoyed much success for manufacturing whisky. I hope that you gentlemen will not get into the same condition and try to make whisky out of sawdust."

Three new members were added to the Lee County Lumber company, of Smithville, Ga., owned by the King Lumber company; J. H. Steadman Lumber company, of Clayton, Ala., and the Moore Lumber company, of De Soto, Ga.

STATE ROAD BOARD TURNS 12 MILES BACK TO COUNTY

Thomasville, Ga., November 20.—The 12 Georgia miles of the 20 miles of highway from Thomasville to Monticello, Fla., has been turned back to the county by the Georgia state road department. The county forces, however, are keeping it in a high state of efficiency, and it is one of the smoothest and fastest automobile roads in this section.

The eight miles from the Georgia-Florida state line to Monticello are part of a standard high grade highway built within the past year by Florida, and the distance from Thomasville to Jacksonville, and other Florida points, via this route, is the shortest available. The Georgia road department took this road over when they considered they had several hundred additional miles authorized by legislation, but a decision of the state supreme court ruled otherwise, so the road was under this decision put back on Thomas county.

cess as a screen star. She was for years leading woman with Douglas Fairbanks and played also under the direction of Marshall Neilan in many notable films. Her last picture was a technical-color production based on the life of General Robert Lee.

FLAMES DAMAGE WEST PEACHTREE APARTMENT HOUSE

Fire of undetermined origin early Tuesday afternoon seriously damaged the upper floor of the L'Aiglon apartments at 1145 West Peachtree street. None of the occupants was injured. The fire, which originated in an attic of the building, was first noticed and reported by passersby who saw smoke issuing from under the eaves. Three fire companies were soon on the scene and after some difficulty subdued the flames which had gained considerable headway in the walls and ceilings.

HOTEL MAN SUES WIFE FOR DIVORCE

Chicago, November 20.—(AP)—Ernest L. Byfield, whose hotel interests include the Sherman, the Ambassador and the Fort Dearborn, has brought suit for divorce, averring that Mrs. Byfield, the former Gladys Rosenthal, insists upon living in Europe whereas his business interests necessitate his remaining here.

Mrs. Byfield has lived abroad for two years. Attorneys indicated she would be permitted the custody of their two sons. The Byfields were married in 1914.

RICH BRITISH PEER IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Alleged Infidelity on Part of Wife Who Did Not Fight Suit.

Edinburgh, November 20.—(AP)—Lord Inverclyde, one of England's richest peers, today was granted a divorce from Lady Inverclyde.

Lord Inverclyde sought the decree on the ground of an alleged infidelity in a Paris hotel last June. The main evidence in the suit, which was not defended, was taken, on commission after oral testimony today from Lord Inverclyde, his London butler and Lady Inverclyde's former maid, the court granted the decree.

Lord Inverclyde inherited more than 2,000,000 ($10,000,000) when he succeeded his father in 1919. His marriage to Olive Sylvia Sainsbury was one of the leading social events of 1920. One incident of the wedding was the failure of Lord Inverclyde to appear until 15 minutes after the time set for the ceremony.

Lady Inverclyde is the daughter of Arthur Sainsbury, a provision merchant known all over England. She is a keen sportswoman, fond of hunting, tennis and swimming.

Lord Inverclyde is the grandson of one of the founders of the Cuard Line. He has been assistant to the secretary for Scotland.

PRISONER STATES HE WILL CONTINUE TO SELL LIQUOR

C. W. Belcher presented a new problem for United States Commissioner J. E. Brown when brought before him Tuesday on a charge of violating the prohibition law in that he had been selling whisky and declared that he intended to keep on selling it.

"I've never had a case just like this one in the nine years that I've been commissioner," said the judge as he bound the prisoner over under $50 bond.

Belcher declared that he had to make money some way in order to educate his three children. "My health is too bad to allow me to work," he stated, "and I don't know of any other way to make a living for myself and family. I do a good business because I don't sell anything but good whisky," he declared.

MOMENTO OF TRIP OF GRAF ZEPPELIN GIVEN OGLETHORPE

Receipt of a German flag, a memento of the successful trans-Atlantic flight made by the Graf Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen to New York, was announced Tuesday by Dr. Thorwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university.

It is the latest addition to the peace memorial of national emblems collected and presented to Oglethorpe by W. Earl Hopper, of Long Branch, N. J., a warm friend of the university, Dr. Jacobs stated.

The flag, which measures 4 by 6 feet, has attached to it a small label inscribed: "Presented by Dr. Robert Reiner, passenger Graf Zeppelin, October 11 to 15, 1924." Dr. Reiner, president of Robert Reiner, Inc., New Jersey manufacturer, was the first American passenger on the east-to-west commercial flight of the dirigible, Dr. Jacobs said.

Former Convict To Realize Desire For Term in Pen

Clarence E. Gilmore, who recently was arrested in Macon by Postoffice Inspector Hudson, has a good chance of achieving his desire to become an inmate of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary, according to information given out by Joe P. Johnston, post office inspector in charge of this district.

Gilmore, who is being held by the U. S. commissioner at Macon for the grand jury on a charge of sending obscene literature through the mails, has been foiled in his recent attempts to get himself jailed. Mr. Johnston stated, but his latest scheme in all probability will bring about the desired result.

Gilmore, said to be an ex-convict from Iowa, recently "surrendered" to United States authorities in South Carolina, claiming that he was "wanted." Investigation proved this to be false. His next attempt was in Jacksonville, Fla., where he also was released when Atlanta authorities were informed.

Following this, it is stated, he began sending obscene literature and letters through the mails to a Macon address and once more he is in the toils of the law. Inspectors Shannon, Hudson and Ackerman reported to Mr. Johnston the arrest of J. E. Boyd, former postmaster of Tarrytown, who was bound over by the U. S. commissioner at Dublin on embezzlement charges. Boyd was displaced as postmaster November 16 when Chas. W. Graham was put in charge as acting postmaster.

LEGION HEAD SEEKS AID OF LABOR TO END WAR

Federation and Veterans Should Join To Procure Laws, Says McNutt.

New Orleans, November 20.—(AP)—Union labor and the legion to support legislation to prevent war was urged today by Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion; in an address before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"Shoulder to shoulder, labor and the legion can do this service together for our country," he shouted amid applause from the labor leaders.

Appealing for the labor support for universal draft legislation backed by the legion, Commander McNutt said it would be a "service for all, creating an equal responsibility to citizenship, eliminating the shacker, eliminating privilege, profit and plunder when the emergency arises."

Declaring that at the close of the world war "a new millionaire's mansion could be checked against every white cross and star on the battlefields," he asserted that the legion was convinced that the "greatest insurance for permanent peace is the taking of profit out of war."

The universal draft enunciates in brief form the basic principles that profiteering would be impossible and that every man would be subject to service in accordance with his ability, physical condition and the needs of the government.

"The loopholes of the draft dodgers would be stopped. The rich man's son and the son of the working man would stand on equal footing." Colonel C. B. Ross, of the United States army, representing the secretary of war, said the army "is preparing for war but it is not preparing a cause of war."

SAVANNAH G. O. P. CITY CANDIDATES TO BE SELECTED

Savannah, Ga., November 20.—(AP)—Republican aldermanic candidates for seats in city council will be selected by a committee of the Republican club, which will meet tomorrow. Dr. J. W. Daniel, president of the club and chairman of the committee chosen to select the candidates, said tonight that in view of the showing made by the republican party in Savannah during the recent election, "we feel that the party is entitled to some representation on city council."

AUGUSTAN TO HEAD GEORGIA CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION

Augusta, Ga., November 20.—(Special).—W. Edgar Rainey, who for the past several years, has been keenly interested in interdenominational young people's work, has been appointed, president of the Georgia Christian Endeavor union after William Beck, of Atlanta, the former president, resigned.

Although Mr. Rainey is only 20 years of age he is well known in the business world, being a member of the following organizations: Rotary club, Augusta Builders' exchange and member of the board of directors, Knights of Pythias, Elks club, United Commercial Travelers of America and past junior counselor, Augusta Outboard Motor association and chairman of the board of directors, and the Augusta Gun club.

CARTOONIST'S WIFE ASKS FOR DIVORCE

White Plains, N. Y., November 20.—(AP)—Suit for divorce against Claire Briggs, cartoonist, has been filed by Ruth Owen Briggs, it was disclosed today with the filing of a notice to the court that both sides know the cause is at issue.

BAY STATE VOTE WET BY 283,224 MAJORITY

34 Out of 36 Districts Seek Repeal of Eighteenth Amendment.

Boston, November 20.—(AP)—With only six small precincts missing from a tabulation compiled by the Constitutional Liberty league of the vote on the Massachusetts prohibition referendum two weeks ago, the result announced today showed: "Yes" 387,135; "No" 414,512.

The question of whether the state's senators should be instructed to make congress to repeal the 18th amendment, carried in 34 of the 36 districts in which it was proposed. Four districts did not vote on the question. The "wet" margin was 283,224 and the constitutional league pointed out that the number of persons participating in the "public policy" vote represented 78 per cent of the total ballots cast in the general election, or one of the highest percentages ever recorded on a referendum in Massachusetts.

In a recent letter sent to all Massachusetts congressional and legislative candidates, the Anti-Saloon league characterized the referendum as "a mere straw ballot, legally futile and non-binding," and said that the result would be no test of "wet" or "dry" sentiment because the "organized dregs" would not participate.

In answer the Constitutional Liberty league asserted a higher percentage of voters marked their ballots in the last referendum than did in 1924, when the so-called baby vote act was before the people and was actively supported by the dry organizations.

Although the complaint has not been filed, it was learned that they have been living apart under a separation agreement for two years.

PEACH, COTTON LOSS HIT BY ROOSEVELT

Low Prices in Georgia Justifies Quitting, He States.

Warm Springs, Ga., November 20. (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is interested in extensive agricultural properties in Georgia, announced here today that in his opinion money no longer could be made in the growing of peaches and cotton in the state under prevailing low prices and other unfavorable conditions.

The New York governor-elect made his statement after an inspection late this afternoon of part of the 2,000-acre farm operated near here by the Warm Springs Foundation, of which he is the organizer and a trustee.

So unsuccessful had been the foundation's venture this year into production of these two commodities, he said, due to low prices, infestation of boll weevil and peach rust, that he now is giving consideration to abandonment of them altogether and the substitution of beef cattle-raising.

Forces Farm Abandonment.

Many farms are going out of commission because of such conditions, he added, pointing to a property adjacent to that of the foundation's farm where next year's crop from 40,000 fruit trees already has been abandoned.

The foundation's acreage comprises about 600 acres of agricultural land and the remainder in forests. It was acquired for the purpose of holding for the Warm Springs resort the eminence on Pine mountain overlooking a wide valley below, which has attracted many for its scenic effects. A fair crop of peaches was raised this year, Mr. Roosevelt said, but little was shipped because the small prices brought in larger centers hardly would pay the cost of transportation.

The result was that the fruit was left to rot on the trees on a large part of the 300 acres devoted to peaches. The whole Pine mountain peach section was similarly hard hit, he added, placing the foundation's loss at about $4,000, part of which was insured.

Miss Berry Plans To Invest Award In School Pupils

New York, November 20. (AP)—Miss Martha Berry, of the Berry schools, Rome, Ga., who received Pictorial Review annual achievement award of $5,000, announced today at a luncheon given in her honor that she would "invest the money in boys and girls of the school." Miss Berry founded the institution for underprivileged mountain children of the south 27 years ago.

The award is given each year to the American woman who makes the most distinctive achievement through individual effort in letters, art, science or social welfare.

AWARD PRESENTED AT LUNCHEON.

New York, November 20. (Special.)—Another name was added to the women's hall of fame today when William P. Annett, publisher of Pictorial Review, presented to Martha Berry, of Rome, Ga., the 1927 Pictorial Review achievement award. The occasion was celebrated at a luncheon at Sherry's, and was attended by 30 distinguished writers and educators.

Dr. Henry Goddard Leach, editor of the Forum, presided, and introduced the speakers, among whom were Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Miss Inez Wooten, a pupil of the Berry school; Mr. Annett and Miss Berry.

Mrs. Catt lauded the winner of the prize for her unusual activities in fighting against illiteracy, and hoped for the day when her activities would be extended throughout the world. Inez Wooten, who came from Georgia to thank the award judges, spoke of the advantages the school was offering to the youth of the south.

In accepting the prize, Miss Berry outlined her plans for the school which bears her name, and explained how the money would be expended. This is not the first time she has received recognition for her educational work. In 1925 she was awarded the Roosevelt Memorial Association medal, which was presented to her at the white house by President Coolidge.

Miss Berry organized her school in 1900 for the purpose of giving the children of the Blue Ridge and Appalachian mountains an opportunity to receive a sound academic education while training them for agriculture and life at home. Her schools have turned out 7,000 graduates, and recently a junior college was organized.

The annual achievement award of $5,000 was established by Pictorial Review six years ago to bring added recognition and honor to outstanding American women who have contributed most in the last 10 years to American science, art or letters. Last year Eva Le Gallienne won the prize for her work in the civic repertory theater.

BIDS FOR SCHOOL WORK TO BE OPENED BY CONTACT BODY

Members of the contact committee of the Atlanta board of education and the bond commission will open bids at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the school administration building for the last 13 school projects contemplated from the 1929 school bond funds, it was announced Tuesday by George Powell, president of the board. Approximate cost of the structures is estimated at $700,000.

Following tabulation of the bids, Mr. Powell will call a special meeting of the board to pass on the recommendations of the committees; then Frank H. Neely, chairman of the bond commission, will call a special meeting of that body, and Mayor I. N. Ragland will ask a special meeting of council. These steps will be taken to expedite actual start of work.

The 13 new buildings and additions for which the bids will be opened are Commercial High, South Boulevard, Samuel Parkman, East Park, Howard, Highland, Slaton, Ragdale, Moreland, Peoples, Kirkwood, McLendon and Luckie street.

CARSON'S INVENTION U. S. TAKES TO AIR IS BRINGING RETURNS IN DEFINITE FASHION

Copper Companies Stop Director of Aeronautics Fight and Begin Making Payments.

San Francisco, November 20.—(AP) A quest for wealth which started in boyhood began to bear fruit today for George Campbell Carson, who grubbed the desert for nearly 30 years in a vain search for gold and then in the evening of life invented a reverbated copper smelting furnace which at last promises to make him a millionaire.

The first returns to Carson for his invention were announced here yesterday when his attorneys said that the United Verde Copper company had made a settlement in the suit which he brought charging infringement of patent. The amount of the settlement was not made known but it was announced that the company had taken out a license for future use of the Carson furnace.

Almost simultaneously came word from Tucson, Ariz., that judgment had been entered in his favor in a suit against the Phelps Dodge corporation and the Calumet and Arizona Mining company. The court did not fix the amount of damages in the latter case, which also involved the use of the reverbated furnace but an accounting was ordered.

These three suits were among a series of legal actions which three years ago against the copper companies. Carson recently was awarded a favorable decision against the Anaconda Copper Mining company in the United States supreme court.

Although the amount of money accruing to the old prospector and his associates cannot be computed in exact figures, it is said that the total will be between $7,000,000 and $20,000,000.

After years of prospecting on the California and Nevada deserts had failed to enrich him, Carson turned to the study of chemistry and engineering. The furnace was the result. The copper companies contended that it was based on an old principle and that Carson was not entitled to royalties.

Penniless, Carson was forced to form the Carson Investment company in order to press his claims against the copper producers and stock was sold to finance the litigation. Carson was obliged to surrender a large portion of his claim through sale of the stock. Continued litigation was said to have left him with a minor share in the stock company but still enough to make him wealthy if he realizes fully on the claims.

Carson married a San Francisco woman about two years ago and last year she filed an insanity charge against him, but this was dismissed and the couple were reconciled.

RED CROSS SENDS
$1,000 FLOOD AID
TO HARLAN, KY.

Washington, November 20.—(AP)—The American Red Cross today made available $1,000 to aid in relief work at Harlan, Ky., where its local chapter reported 600 people driven from their homes by flood waters of the Cumberland river. The refugees are being given food, clothing and other necessities. A Red Cross field worker from Cincinnati has been dispatched to the flood scene for further survey.

NATIONAL W. C. T. U.
ELECTS OFFICERS
AT BOSTON MEET

Boston, November 20.—(AP)—The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, at its fifty-fourth convention today, rejected all its officers and unanimously adopted a resolution urging all state and local W. C. T. U. organizations "to help in securing federal supervision of motion pictures, establishing higher moral standards of production."

The officers are: President, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, Brooklyn, N. Y.; vice president, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, Des Moines, Iowa; secretary, Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo, Evanston, Ill.; treasurer, Mrs. Margaret C. Mumma, Evanston, Ill.; recording secretary, Mrs. Sarah H. Hoge, Lincoln, Va.; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Nellie G. Burger, Springfield, Mo.

NATIONAL GRANGE
CHOOSE SEATTLE
FOR 1929 MEET

Washington, November 20.—(AP)—Eugene A. Eckert, of Illinois, was re-elected chairman of the executive committee of the National Grange at a brief business session today.

Seattle, Wash., was finally selected as the meeting place for the grange next year. A. S. Goss, grange master of Washington, officially invited the delegates to his state for their next convention.

BOATMEN ADRIFT ON LAKE ERIE
FINALLY RESCUED

Buffalo, N. Y., November 20.—(AP) Three Cleveland boatmen, who had been adrift in two barges all night in a biting gale on the lower end of Lake Erie, were rescued today when the boats were washed ashore. The three men are Elmer, Makalan, 40; Emil Hosland, 31; and John Westo, 22, all employed by the American Construction company, of Cleveland.

Their condition was said not to be serious.

DR. E. M. POTEAT TO SPEAK FRIDAY
AT CHURCH DINNER

Dr. Edwin M. Poteat, supply pastor of the Second Baptist church, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Business Women's League and Bible class, No. 2, of the Second Baptist church, to be held at 7 o'clock Friday night in the Atlanta Athletic club.

F. J. Paxson, teacher of the Bible class, is in charge of arrangements, while Mrs. Paxson, president of the league, will preside. The program will be supplemented by music.

Dr. Poteat recently returned from Winder, where he was assisting the Rev. E. E. Steele in a series of religious meetings. He will occupy the pulpit at regular prayer services at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Washington, November 20.—A phenomenal record of progress in all branches of American aviation is revealed in the annual report of Major Clarence M. Young, director of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, which was made public today.

The growth of air commerce and the air craft industry of the United States, Major Young believes, is due in no small measure to the strict enforcement of federal regulations which has inspired public confidence in the safety of air transport.

During 1927 American factories produced nearly 2,000 aircraft having a total value of $14,250,000 as compared with less than 1,200 valued at $8,870,000 during the preceding year. Exports of air craft and parts during 1927 amounted to nearly $2,000,000, an increase of approximately 85 per cent over 1926. During the first half of the current year our total sales in foreign markets of aircraft products were 38 per cent greater than the entire shipments of last year.

Air-transport, Major Young declares, has now attained a definite place in the economic scheme of transportation. The established airway system is the backbone of our commercial aviation, although operations over this network form only one-tenth of all civil flight. These routes cover 11,191 miles on which 27,817 miles are flown daily. Of these, 10,386 miles are under mail contract, and 290 mail planes fly 22,224 miles daily over these routes. There are now 5,880 miles lighted, 1,800 miles under contract for night flying, and 2,308 additional miles considered for lighting during the fiscal year 1929.

The cities actually connected by the routes at the close of the fiscal year numbered 88, the trading areas served containing 80 million people. By the close of the current fiscal year it is believed that almost all of the larger cities and many of the middle-sized communities will be connected by air routes and that smaller feeder lines will serve many outlying cities.

Cogact During Flight.

Communication to aircraft in flight along the transcontinental route, the report states, will be available within a short time. Radio equipment is under construction for replacing obsolete apparatus now in use. The new apparatus will provide radio-telephone or radio-telegram communication as may be required on frequencies between 100 and 500 kilocycles.

Considerable research and testing work was conducted by the bureau of standards for the aeronautics branch during the period under review. These investigations embraced radio aids to navigation, lighting of airways, sound proofing of airplane cabins, airplane control tests and tests of commercial aircraft engines.

Approximately 600 airplanes are being built in American factories each month which have to be inspected as to their airworthiness. It is obvious, Major Young states, that a very efficient organization of the inspection section is essential in order to carry out the work involved. To this end, factory inspectors are being employed and trained as rapidly as possible for the purpose of the issuance of licenses in the first instance, although these planes will still require periodical re-inspection by the field personnel of the department.

Applications for pilot's and mechanic's licenses showed striking increase during the past fiscal year, due in large measure to the publicity given the epochal flights which occurred during that period. By June 30 last applications for licenses were 6,500 pilots and 5,000 mechanics which was about three times the number of file on the corresponding date the previous year. On June 30 over 1,470 applications had been received for licensing airplanes as compared with 1,100 at the end of the 1927 fiscal period. Up to June 30 last, licenses had been issued for approximately 3,000 pilots, 3,000 mechanics and 2,000 airplanes. In addition, 4,000 applications for students' permits have been filed.

Forty Inspectors in Field.

In order to pass on the qualifications of these applicants, the bureau maintains 40 inspectors in the field. As the work of these inspectors is almost entirely at airports, official airplanes can be utilized with great saving of time and corresponding increase of efficiency. Unfortunately, the report shows there are but 14 planes of modern design available for their use.

Funds are available for the purchase of five more but even with this additional number of airplanes the total will be about one-third of the number essential to the most efficient performance of inspection duties.

Referring to the enforcement of regulations the report shows that during the past fiscal year there were 224 violations, resulting in 65 assessments of the civil penalty, 121 reprimands, 22 suspensions, 2 revocations, and 5 denials of licenses. The violations consisted of aerobics over prohibited areas, flying low over congested areas, flying licensed aircraft with no identification numbers displayed and flying without navigation lights.

Among the interesting developments of the past fiscal year cited by Major Young in his report was the creation of an accident board within his organization to investigate all civil aircraft accidents with the view to determining and eliminating their causes. This board is composed of two experienced pilots, a flight surgeon, a lawyer versed in air law and an aeronautical engineer. A careful analysis of accidents is made and a percentage valuation assigned to contributory causes. This method, it is declared, will provide statistics to show the exact causes of accidents and point the way to their elimination. It will also provide a valuable index to those portions of the air commerce regulations regarding both personnel and material that may be unnecessarily severe, or where higher safety standards are requisite and more exacting and specific regulations must be imposed.

JACKIE COOGAN
WELL RECEIVED IN LONDON DEBUT

London, November 20.—(AP)—The film fame of Jackie Coogan, assured a big audience before his first appearance on the London stage last night, but it had to be seen whether he would make good to the satisfaction of his English admirers. Judging from the reception he got, he did.

The Palladium theater was densely crowded with an audience which was thoroughly pleased with Jackie's dialogue with his father and his recitations. He was given numerous curtain calls.

Perhaps the audience really enjoyed most the boy's natural joy in receiving on the stage a gift of an electric train from the management and hearing Jackie's impromptu speech of thanks.

The notices in this morning's papers were kindly.

FARMERS' UNION HEAD ADVISES ITS MEMBERS

Barrett Recounts History of Organization in His Address.

Denver, Colo., November 20.—(AP)—Charles E. Barrett, for the past 22 years president of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, today said in an address prepared for delivery before the body he heads that "my decision to retire is irrevocable."

Mr. Barrett, a resident of Union City, Ga., called upon the farmers to continue their demonstrations of faith and loyalty to the organization. A report of his stewardship over the long period he has served the union contained an observation that the American farmers are "the most glorious people on God's footstool."

Continuing, Mr. Barrett said: "The same guiding spirit which has hovered over this human expression of righteous hope and effort since the first call to the ranks, a quarter of a century ago, remains to inspire and lead you, as always, for the good of the order, the service of humanity and this method of carrying out our organized purpose of the enlightenment and practice of the Golden Rule."

"Those of you gathered here as well as all the loyal hosts of farmers' union men and women can well appreciate the spirit with which my decision to retire from your presidency is made. No man in the United States has enjoyed more at the hands of his friends and associates a similar period of time. A glorious chapter has been written into the record of human relationships."

Mr. Barrett said the encouragement and counsel he is giving the union upon his retirement have been earned by the organization by its profession of faith, loyalty and trust over the years.

Growth of Order.

"Recall, if you please, the inception, growth and marvelous accomplishments of this organization. It transcends any similar achievements in the history of the service of humanity, a miracle in human endeavor. Banded together through gravity of bitter need and held together by the pressure of dire necessity, you gathered here the idea of this organization have acted with courage, wisdom and devotion that were grounded in an inspiration. A crossroads conference grew into our great national organization. The roadway traveled is replete with landmarks of blessedness and apparently fruitless sacrifices and finally triumphs of cooperation veritably growing out of the souls of men."

"Remarkable as have been the accomplishments of our organization in the building of colossal institutions and the services they are rendering, our greatest glory is to be found in the abiding faith and spirit of achievement always moving in the hearts and minds of the men and women of the farmers' union. They have placed the farmer before the world in an exalted light in human purpose and endeavor."

The speaker, remarking that a quarter of a century has witnessed an extraordinary transition in farmers' affairs, showed that that idea of collective change conditions. He said that the farmers have invaded the business marts successfully an din practically every arena of commercial activity. Warehouses, banks doing a safe and satisfactory business, seats on the grain exchanges and other emblems have come to farmers as a testimonial of their endeavors under organized leadership, Mr. Barrett claimed.

Cooperative Efforts.

"Our cooperative purchases have assumed such vast proportions that we buy complete factory outputs of various supplies. Our cooperative selling and buying reaches, if not exceeding, a volume of one billion dollars annually. More and more, our farmers are being converted to the idea of collective bargaining. Altogether, under the providence of God, the farmers' union without hurt to any man, is a blessing to mankind, and I feel that its influence for good has only fairly begun."

"The record of the farmers' union has proven the soundness and demonstrated the value of the program. We have shown to the thinking farmers as well as the world around them that ours is the practical method of meeting the farm problem. Whatever may be our hopes and theories, there is no escape from the stern fact that if anybody but the farmer can solve the farm problem; that he must do it by looking after his own business; that he must build marketing and financial institutions and then that he must be loyal to them, must patronize them. When he handles a sufficient amount of his own products through his own agencies, he will not only be a factor but a controlling influence with power to dominate markets and make prices. It is all within the program and demonstrated in the practice of our organization."

Honors of Position.

Mr. Barrett said it had been his privilege to represent rural America on many important commissions. He mentioned his membership in the first country life commission, appointed by Theodore Roosevelt, the elder; his voyage to the peace conference in Paris; his place in the disarmament conference called by the late President Harding; his contact with kings and rulers of various lands.

"We have sensed abuses in governmental channels and stopped them. We have found unfair conditions sanctioned by law and forced correction. We have placed the heavy hand of approval on weak or unsatisfactory officials and retired them. We have carried the farmer's fight to the high places. The best evidence of our influence is the fact that practically no great public policy is adopted or even attempted to be imposed, no vital matter in administrative or legislative consideration is given a decision without calling for the recommendation of our organization to bear upon the final action. We stand in the light of deserved recognition," the speaker said.

Mr. Barrett addressed his hearers that they so keep their feet on the ground and their heads out of the skies because "we have done big things but should have done more."

"We need legislation. We need better and less grudging financial service for our business institutions," he said. "We need a fairer balance with other industries in control of marketing."

The one way to get this, he said, was to figure the weakness of the forces with which the union must deal and know the elements of its own strength. "The 'Pot of Gold'."

"We are prone to get new ideas. We are not infrequently inclined to meet new friends and listen to strange and alluring theories. We even misplaced confidence from time to time. We fail to trust ourselves and stand by our own institutions. We have ever followed after false gods. We just keep repeating the practice of listening, against judgment and experience, to the glittering promises of alluring theories of some who would have us believe he is the Moses of agriculture. The pot of gold is assuredly at the end of the rainbow but the rainbow keeps its distance."

"During the years since the world war farmers have been imposed upon and hoodwinked in many ways. The crime of this lies principally in the fact that it has come at a time when they

BRITAIN TO CONDUCT VESTRIS INVESTIGATION

Not Satisfied With Quiz Being Held in New York City.

London, November 20.—(AP)—Herbert Williams, parliamentary secretary of the board of trade, told the house of commons today that the British inquiry into the Vestril disaster will cover all material points. The form that the inquiry will take has not yet been decided.

"I am sure the honorable members will realize," Mr. Williams told an inquirer in commons, "that it will not be possible for the board of trade at this time to express any opinion as to the probable cause of the loss."

Commander Joseph Kenworthy, who put the question, said that he had submitted to the board of trade a large number of questions in connection with the crew of the Vestril. He added that he dissociated himself from those questions.

Responding to Commander Kenworthy's supplementary question as to what instructions had been sent to the British consul general in New York regarding the inquiry there and whether the board of trade was represented "particularly for defending the character of the officers of the vessel" Mr. Williams replied: "I would point out that our position in relation to a foreign tribunal is not one that is easy. I hope the honorable member will not press me."

Asked by another member whether it was likely that the inquiry in the United States would precede any inquiry in England, Mr. Williams said that the board of trade had no control over the government of the United States and that it could only take steps in respect to things under its control.

Captain George Carro-Jones asked Mr. Williams if he had been able to gather from a report of the New York inquiry whether United States District Attorney Tuttle was president of the court of inquiry of the prosecutor. At this question, which had reference to criticism of the method in which the inquiry was being conducted, the speaker of the house intervened.

Answering further questions, Mr. Williams said that all passenger ships plying to and from ports in the United Kingdom were thoroughly gone over by board of trade surveyors at least once a year. Ocean going vessels carrying more than 12 passengers undergo a further survey before each voyage.

Mr. Williams stated that all British liners carried lifeboats with capacity for all persons on board, and that in addition they had rafts capable of carrying 25 per cent of the vessel's human cargo.

Chinese Lawyer Loses His Case; Is Found Guilty

London, November 20.—(AP)—Chung Yi-Miao, young Chinese law student from New York, today lost his battle for his life, which he personally waged before the criminal court of appeal.

The court this morning dismissed the young Chinese's appeal from conviction and death sentence for the murder of his wife, Mai Sheung-Miao. She was found strangled to death near Keswick shortly after the arrival of the couple in England on their honeymoon. They had been married in New York where both had been students at Columbia university.

The young Chinese was sentenced to death at Carlisle on October 24. When the appeal came up yesterday, Chung, who received his legal training in the United States, conducted his own case.

While Lord Hewart was giving judgment, Chung leaned against the dock rail with his hand to his ear eager not to miss any word from the chief justice.

"It is impossible to say that there is not ample evidence to find that this appellant committed this crime," concluded Lord Hewart after reviewing the chief evidence. "Miao is truly guilty of a diabolical calculated crime. This appeal is dismissed."

SITE FOR GOODYEAR WILL BE DECIDED IN "A FEW WEEKS"

Akron, Ohio, November 20.—(AP)—Selection of the site of the Goodyear and Rubber company's new tire plant will be made "within a few weeks," officials of the company indicated today. While admitting that both Atlanta and Birmingham are possible locations, the officials refused to concede either an edge in their considerations. Final selection, they pointed out, must await completion of a survey now being conducted by the company.

T. O. LINCH, FLOVILLA LEADER, SUCCUMBS

Flovilla, Ga., November 20.—(Special)—T. O. Linch, a prominent business man of Flovilla, died suddenly here Monday night. He was a member of the Methodist church and prominent in public enterprises. He was mayor of Flovilla for a number of years.

Surviving is his wife Mrs. Hattie Linch, five children, Professor Eric Linch of Pittsburgh, Pa.; H. J. Linch of Macon, Ga.; Dr. A. O. Linch of Atlanta, F. J. Linch of Orem, Utah, and S. H. Linch of Atlanta; two daughters, Miss Eugenie Linch of Winston Salem, N. C. have been suffering the most, the union head claimed.

Another member he stressed involved cooperation, he said, in farmers' marketing and buying and expressing loyalty and devotion to leaders in the support and patronage of cooperative institutions. Mr. Barrett urged a constant search for the unscrupulous within the union ranks, eternal vigilance for the enemy both without and within, and "above all a strength in numbers and a power of influence that will command attention."

"As I lay aside the cloak of responsibility, I have a great satisfaction," the president claimed. "First is the blessed memory of having been taken from a farm in the hills of Georgia and placed at the head of our glorious order and the long highway of travel during the ensuing twenty-five years which has carried me into places of service, avenues of pleasure, channels of distinction and respect, and best of all into the homes and hearts of millions of God-fearing farmers throughout our land."

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SALES MEETING

325 Business and Manufacturing Executives Will Attend Conference.

Final preparations for accommodating the guests who will attend the first annual Southern Manufacturers' Sales conference to open Thursday at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel were completed Tuesday night. J. P. McGrath, secretary-treasurer of the Georgia Manufacturers' association and secretary of the conference committee, said that more than 25 additional business and manufacturing executives had declared their intention of attending during the day. This brings the total to 325, at least half of whom are coming from outside of Atlanta, chiefly from the seaboard and gulf states.

Every aspect of domestic sales promotion is to be discussed by the twelve speakers on the program. The retailers' viewpoint on the shift in buying habits will be taken up by Raymond A. Kline, vice president of the Davidson-Tyson company. Other speakers will tell of the increased sales their companies have made through adapting their organizations to new products, through analyzing the trade trends toward styled merchandise and taking advantage of special design and color treatment in fabrics, furniture and ceramics.

Callaway to Talk.
Cason J. Callaway, president of the Hillside Cotton mills, of LaGrange, will talk on the effect of proper merchandising on textile sales.

R. Mifflin Hood, president of the B. Mifflin Hood Brick company, who primarily was responsible for the establishment of a department of ceramics at Georgia Tech and who has made a 25-year study of the subject, will outline his conclusions as to the value of style and design in selling ceramics.

New ideas in merchandising lumber and an explanation of the manner in which one company, the Dennison Manufacturing company, of Framingham, Mass., succeeds in having its salesmen spend 25 per cent more time with its customers than it did before a sales research investigation developed a new selling routine will be explained.

The program of the day begins for the conference committee and the speakers at a conference breakfast to be served at the Biltmore. The formal program will be opened at 9:30 o'clock when Governor L. G. Hardman gives the address of welcome.

Arkwright to Preside.
Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power company and chairman of the committee, will preside over both the morning and afternoon sessions.

The Atlanta Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia, the Georgia Manufacturers' association, the Southern Clay Products association, the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' association, the Southern Shash, Door and Millwork Manufacturers' association are sponsoring the conference in cooperation with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Although all of the southern manufacturing, selling, transportation and utilities interests do not have representative spokesmen on the official program, the interest in the increasingly important sales and distribution problem is so keen that more than 20 different industries are sending representatives to the conference to listen to the speakers and to take part in the discussions which will follow in speeches.

'CTIM OF KILLING
WORE SUIT BOUGHT AT ATLANTA STORE

Minneapolis, November 20.—(AP)—Police today were attempting to solve the mystery of the slaying of an unidentified man whose body, with a shotgun slug penetrating the heart, was found in a gully near the Mississippi river.

The man's clothing, bearing the initials of "D. Shalloway and Company, Atlanta and Miami," furnished the only clues as to his identity.

Though fully attired, the victim of the shooting wore pajamas in lieu of underclothing, and police advanced the theory that the body had been dressed after the slaying and then taken to the spot where it was discovered.

The man was about 45 years of age, police said, and was dressed in a brown sweater, hunting trousers, red socks, and tan shoes.

Atlanta police have not been notified of the killing, nor asked to help in the investigation.

LUMBER FREIGHTER
STOPS TO REPAIR
DAMAGE TO PUMPS

Panama, November 20.—(AP)—The freighter Indian of the Canadian Transport company, bound from Vancouver to Baltimore, stopped at Balboa yesterday to rectify a list to the starboard. The list was believed to have been caused when water tanks on the port side were emptied and the starboard pumps did not work. The vessel carried a cargo of lumber.

A pattern whose popularity among American women rests on its own simple beauty despite the fact that its charming dignity has won the homage of a king.

King Albert is an authentic Colonial pattern. Its delicate ornament is especially pleasing to those who enjoy Colonial silver but do not care for the plainness which so often marks designs of this period.

King Albert is produced in complete dinner sets, tea sets, coffee services . . . and is but one of many lovely Gorham patterns we would take pleasure in showing.

Girls To Typify Early Georgia Products

When the woman's division of the Chamber of Commerce entertains with a harvest festival Friday and Saturday nights of this week at the city auditorium for the benefit of the children's ward of the Grady hospital the above pictured young women will typify four of Georgia's most noted products during the early stages of its history. The pageant will chronicle in detail the history of the state from before the coming of General Oglethorpe down to the present day. In the photograph are Miss Clifford Smith, who will personify wheat, Miss Ruby Lockett, representing sugar cane, Miss Frances Baker, representing tobacco, and Miss Louise Blackwelder, personifying snap beans.

MIDWESTERN FLOODS BEGIN TO RECEDE

Chicago, November 20.—(United News).—As raging waters swept over five states to the south and west of here receded today relief workers surveyed a wide trail of destruction and loss of life left in the flood wake.

Sixteen dead, thousands of persons homeless and property damage estimated in excess of $10,000,000 was the extent of destruction in the states of Kansas, Missouri, Illinois and Kentucky alone. Lowlands in southeastern Iowa also were inundated.

Thirteen persons were drowned in Kansas, according to the latest check up and three lives were claimed in Kentucky. In Kansas the Walnut, Arkansas and Verdigris rivers went on a rampage that lasted three days following heavy rains throughout the state. Thousands of acres of land were flooded and homes swept away causing wide-spread suffering.

The Cumberland and Kentucky rivers rose in Kentucky flooding five counties in the eastern part of the state. Driftwood carried a bridge away at Terjay, drowning three men. The latest attack of the fall flood waters on the man-made parapets which ordinarily held the Mississippi river in its course, tore down the levees at Quincy, Ill., flooding approximately 12,000 acres of rich farmlands on both the Illinois and Missouri sides of the stream. Lowlands in southeastern Iowa also were flooded.

Millions of dollars damage was done to the section in western Illinois near Quincy, alone. Damage to crops and livestock in other sections of Illinois and Missouri will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

One man was reported missing at Marks, Mo., and the pumping station in many drainage districts were put out of commission by high water. Railroad traffic which had been paralyzed, was being resumed to many flooded localities, but service is irregular.

No trains have run on the Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City line since Saturday night and hundreds of men are rebuilding tracks near Marks. The river has fallen a foot in the last 24 hours.

The Missouri river went out of its banks at many points in Missouri. The stream rose at points across the state between Kansas City and St. Louis.

FUNERAL SERVICES
FOR W. W. CHILDS
TO BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Walter W. Childs, 70-year-old Atlantan, who was killed Monday in an automobile accident near Conyers, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in Covington.

Mr. Childs was almost instantly killed when the automobile in which he was riding ran into a ditch after the driver was blinded by the glare of the lights on a motor truck. He had been retired from active

LEADERS OF Y. M. C. A. CONVENE IN ATLANTA

Dr. A. E. Wheeler, Secretary of Georgia Organization, Resigns Place.

With about 40 state and local leaders in Y. M. C. A. work in attendance the annual council of the Georgia Y. M. C. A. convened at the Central Y. M. C. A. Tuesday afternoon. The sessions will be continued through today and at the close the program for the organization for the forthcoming year will be announced.

One of the important events of the opening meeting was the resignation of Dr. A. E. Wheeler, who has been state secretary for several years. Dr. Wheeler's resignation was accepted by the body and his successor will be chosen at today's meetings.

A lengthy business session was held at the Y. M. C. A. building Tuesday afternoon and a brief meeting was held at the Henry Grady hotel Tuesday night after a dinner for the delegates.

The dinner-meeting was featured by several speeches. Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta federal reserve district and president of the state organization, presided over the sessions and gave an interesting talk on the problems confronting the group. Columbus Roberts, of Columbus, spoke on behalf of the Columbus Y. M. C. A., of which he is president. Professor Armstrong, from Georgia Tech, spoke briefly on the work of the Y. M. C. A. at the college and a representative of the Hi Y spoke for his group.

MRS. MARIAN STANLEY NATIVE OF BRITAIN, DIES IN ATLANTA

Mrs. Maria Wilson Stanley, 71, died Tuesday afternoon at her home, 65 Atlanta avenue, after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Stanley was a native of Nottingham, England, and came to this country at the age of 19. She came to Atlanta about 35 years ago and had since made her home here. Although she lived the greater part of her life in America Mrs. Stanley never lost her interest in her home land and returned there several times. She made her home with her sister, Mrs. Annie Wilson Orr, until the time of the latter's death and since had been living alone, her husband having died several years ago. She was a member of the Holy Comforter Episcopal church and active in its work.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock today at Spring Hill chapel. The Rev. Horace Chase will be in charge and burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

She leaves no close relatives in Atlanta and is survived by two nieces, Miss Sarah Wilson and Mrs. Bessie Nichols, of Liverpool, England.

REV. J. S. LEWIS
DIES IN ATLANTA;
FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for the Rev. J. S. Lewis, retired Methodist minister who died Monday, will be conducted at 2 o'clock today at the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg and company. The Rev. J. A. Rountree will be in charge and burial will be in Magnolia cemetery.

Mr. Lewis, who was 77 years of age, had been prominent in the south Georgia conference of his church for

we prefer the former

There are two distinct classifications, or should we say definitions, of clothes-buyers.

In the first group are men who are critical to the 'nth degree about the style of a coat, and the refinements which denote immaculate grooming.

The shape of the lapels or the curve of the front, if not exactly to their own liking, will put a suit in the discard as quickly as an off-color would be rejected.

Believe it or not, these same men are as keen in their judgment of values as they are discerning in the matter of style.

In the second group men are totally different—almost indifferent . . . to the important features or imperfections which make one suit more desirable than another.

Color—Pattern—Price . . . is all they can see. Everything else is viewed with unconcern. In the stores they are known as "floaters." No one regards them as regular customers.

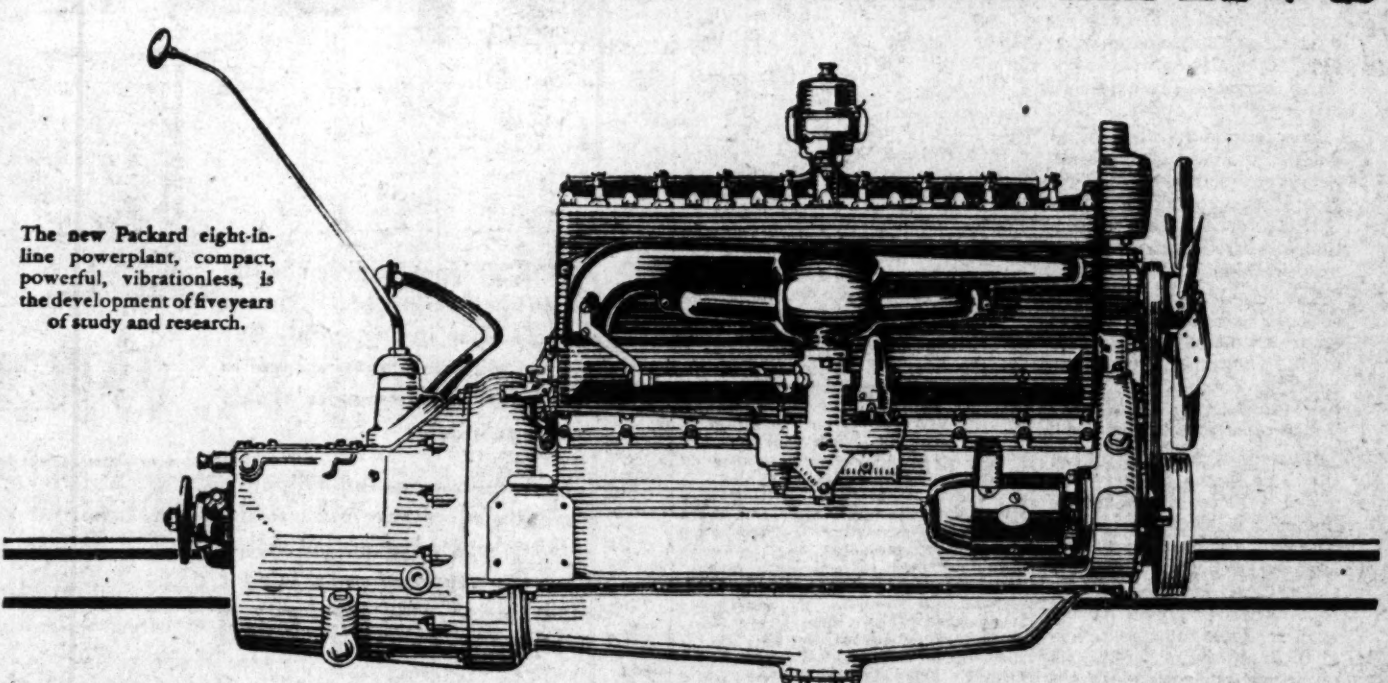

Frankly, we prefer to deal with the former group. The more exacting people are the more they will find in our clothes to admire. Having put forth much effort to please our customers, we naturally enjoy the applause.

A NEW POWERPLANT

— which makes every Packard a Packard Eight

THE new Packard eight-in-line powerplant for its 126 and 133-inch wheelbase models reflects Packard's 30 years of experience in building and servicing all types of motors.

The eight-in-line engine originated in Europe where it was developed by those manufacturers who have since unanimously abandoned the V-type for it. But Packard was the first prominent American maker to introduce it.

Packard's lead was promptly followed by other American builders so that, whereas prior to 1923 thirty American manufacturers of multi-cylinder cars were making V-type motors, today there are but four.

Whereas, previously, twenty-two European manufacturers had been marketing V-type motors, today not a single one is still using them in stock car production.

Five years of constant study of the straight eight, based solidly on Packard's successful development of this type engine for its 136 and 143-inch wheelbase cars, had so firmly proved the basic merits of the eight-in-line principle that Packard decided to completely standardize on eights.

With the new motor Packard puts eight-cylinder smoothness, power and performance at the command of thousands who in the past did not feel they could afford the supreme luxury of transportation which a Packard Eight provides.

You may demonstrate the new Packard Standard Eight at any time. Come in or phone and one will be placed at your disposal. We promise you a new experience in motoring luxury.

The Packard Standard Eight 5-pass. Sedan costs but $2435 at the factory.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

'THE HOLY CITY' GIVEN BY ST. LUKE'S CHOIR

Gaul's Famous Oratorio Well Rendered by 50-Voice Chorus.

The splendid 50-voice choir of St. Luke's Episcopal church, under the direction of Hugh Hodgson, organist and master of the choristers, rendered "The Holy City," famous oratorio, to a large crowd of music lovers at the church Tuesday night.

The thrilling composition by A. R. Gaul was sung with all its rare beauty and power and proved once again that there are few, if any, more effective compositions in the library of sacred music than this. The choir, marvelously balanced and drilled to perfection, gave the many choruses with an effectiveness and vivid tone shading that could not be excelled.

St. Luke's is particularly fortunate in possessing a large number of really excellent soloists, and these were employed with exquisite selection in the airs and duets with which the oratorio abounds. J. D. Scurluck, Charles Wynne, Mrs. J. C. Brown, Walter Herbert, H. M. Tyler, Mrs. L. S. Harper, Miss Frances Woodberry, Mrs. Hugh Hodgson and J. C. Brown are recalled as especially effective in their solos.

Atlanta is happy in the possession of many excellent church choirs, but there is none more perfectly composed than St. Luke's. With Mr. Hodgson giving his trained genius as organist and director, it is probably true that they are better able to render such works as oratorios and cantatas than any similar organization. However, there are at least half a dozen church choirs in the city that can present marvelously beautiful concerts of this character, and Atlanta musicians demonstrated by the numbers in which they turned out Thursday night, that they are not slow to appreciate such opportunities for enjoyment.

SOUTH FACES ERA OF BRISK BUSINESS

how every effort to sell Atlanta products in any part of the world already had proven successful. Other successes will follow, he said.

Then came George Wythe, American commercial attaché at Mexico City, who told how Morrow and Lindbergh had paved the way for vast commercial enterprises, pictured Mexico as an un-tilled land of milk and honey and saw a glowing future for any company with saleable products which elected Mexico as a field of endeavor. The Latin Americans, too, Mr. Wythe said, were eagerly awaiting the coming of the commercial giant from the north, eager to obtain the necessities and luxuries of America in order that their own homeland might be just as happy and as prosperous as they have been told America is.

Foreign Trade Legislation. How to comply with foreign trade legislation, the technicalities to be bridged in carrying out a foreign commercial venture, was added to the picture by Edward L. Bacher, manager of the foreign commerce department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Our governments and the governments of other nations, by treaty and other agreement have opened up many roads of commerce," Mr. Bacher said. "There are few and far air tariffs. Business is almost everywhere for the asking."

The picture having been painted at the morning session, experts in the art of estimating finished it in the afternoon. The question of financing, arrangement for payments and insurance were discussed in detail by John W. Thomas, vice president of the Central Trust company of Chicago, a banking institution with worldwide connections, outlined to the conferees the methods used by his bank and other agencies in establishing financial arrangements with foreign governments and foreign commercial traders.

Natural Wealth Boundless. "Nearly every country in the world has boundless natural wealth," Mr. Thomas said. "Put a product before any nation, and if needed or desired

Conference Speakers Today

CHARLES H. D'ARDUSEY

DR. HELEN M. STRONG

At the concluding session of the second southeastern foreign trade conference today at the chamber of commerce, Mr. D'Ardusey, of York, Pa., will speak on "Cooperative Export Selling" and Dr. Strong, geographer for the United States department of commerce, will speak on "World Geography, Basis for Export Sales Campaigns."

He has his stuff to sell and when other nations see it they will buy it. Dr. Ray Ovid Hall, assistant chief of the government bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, discussed the balance of international payments, stressing, as did Mr. Thomas, the fact that payments for foreign sold goods was a certainty, that every nation has the wealth to expend for the products it needs. Marine insurance was discussed in detail by R. K. Ogden, director of insurance for the United States shipping board.

Promotion of passenger travel is highly beneficial, James L. McCall, New Orleans steamship agent, declared, citing the remarkable growth of the port of Houston.

Southeastern Ports Neglected. "The ports of the southeast have been neglected by trans-oceanic steamship companies solely because the port sponsors have not insisted on service," Mr. McCall said. "If the commercial interests of Savannah and Charleston would insist on service as has Houston, Galveston and New Orleans, these two cities would be ports of call to some of the greatest and best steamers on the seven seas."

In addition to the luncheon for General Dutton, there also will be a morning and afternoon business meeting at the chamber of commerce today. Many prominent speakers are on the program, discussing in detail exporting, cooperative trading, teaching and learning of foreign languages and selection of foreign agents.

The conference will be concluded tonight with a final session to display an educational and entertaining display of motion pictures depicting the progress of foreign trade by American commercial interests under the auspices of the commerce department and the shipping board.

ATLANTA WARNED TO IMPROVE FIELD

dous possibilities for the cities which will take advantage of their opportunities. The most important thing is to acquire full title to the field. The next most important thing is for Atlanta to have a field manager for the airport, he said. "Most of the big municipal airports have field managers. Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, St. Paul and others, have men who are placed in charge of the airports as directing heads."

Experienced Manager Urged. "There is too much activity at Candler field for the airport to be run in a haphazard manner. The field manager should be a pilot who thoroughly knows his aviation," he said. "If the hump in the middle of the field is not graded down, the field manager should have a control tower, high enough so he can see all parts of the field, in order that he may prevent collisions between planes on the runways."

Candler field should be improved with concrete aprons to keep down the dust, the sodding of the field should be perfected, the runways should be made longer, and municipal hangars should be built, if the local airport is to progress, Mr. MacCracken declared. "There should be a recreational center off to one side of the field—make the place attractive to the people." The chief complaint which has been registered with him against the field, however, is the lack of management at the airport, he said.

Hartsfield, Hallman Congratulated. Mr. MacCracken said that while the needs of the local airport are many, he wanted to congratulate William B. Hartsfield, chairman of the council committee on airports, for the "glorious start" which has been achieved. He said that Mr. Hartsfield should be backed up by the people in the fight for better airport facilities. He also praised Henderson Hallman, governor of Georgia, for his aviation development work.

Hartford, Conn., a city smaller than Atlanta, put over a $400,000 bond issue to improve its airport, and Chattanooga, Tenn., recently passed a $250,000 bond issue to build an airport. Mr. MacCracken pointed out that "Buffalo and Cleveland passed bond issues of $1,000,000 each for airport development. Seattle and Portland

A Body Builder for Pale, Delicate Children

obtained $500,000 each for their airport progress."

Speaking of municipal hangars, Mr. MacCracken said that one northern city built three large ones several years ago, and today they are filled to capacity all of the time. Atlanta should have a municipal hangar to accommodate transient and private planes, he said.

Aviation Flexible.

In his reference to the danger of Atlanta's losing important air lines, Mr. MacCracken pointed out that the Miami-New York route is a couple of hundred miles out of its way in coming by Atlanta, and that air lines are different from railroads in that the rail lines require large capital investments for the routes, whereas aviation is a most flexible means of transportation. "It would be a simple move to relocate the line east or west, or north or south of this city," he pointed out. "A city must be on its toes all of the time to retain its aviation advantages. The opportunity of becoming a great air center may prove that the city is such a center, but not that it will always continue to be," he said.

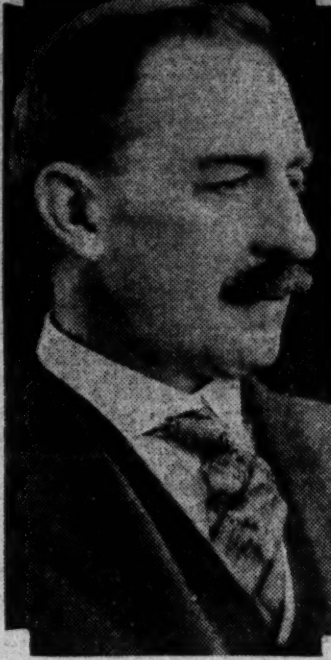

One northern airplane manufacturer started three years ago with an investment of $500,000, his output in a month is now $500,000, and by the end of the year it will be $1,000,000 a month, Mr. MacCracken said in a pointing out the tremendous strides of the industry.

Next Aviation Feat.

With the Atlantic and Pacific crossings, the transcontinental non-stop flights and the polar flights matters of history, the next thing for the air adventurers to tackle is a non-stop flight around the world, he said. Mr. MacCracken expressed the opinion that the around-the-world non-stop flight will be tried in the near future, and that it will be done with lighter than air craft. The real thing, however, is not the stunt feature, but the commercial appreciation of the record seeking flights, he said. For instance, he pointed out, Lindbergh's epochal flight awakened a world wide interest in aviation, and demonstrated the possibility of regular air lines between the continents.

His own interest in aviation dates from more than a decade ago, when he was a flying instructor in the army. "In fact," he laughed, "I had more than 100 hours in the air before I learned to drive an automobile." His story of his first automobile drive, reserved for the ears of his friends, is a "wow," as he forgot that one does not drive at the same speed on earth as one does high above the ground.

Work as Secretary.

Mr. MacCracken took charge of the aeronautics department of the department of commerce when it was organized two years ago, and ever since that time, due to the popular interest in aviation, he has been on the jump. He relates with dry humor, the story of a nine-day series of speeches, the story leaving the listener dizzy from the way the assistant secretary hopped around the country.

Mr. MacCracken thought that his career was that of lawyer until he became interested in developing commercial aviation. He still retains the secretaryship of the American Bar association, though he is no longer engaged in the practice of law.

the property was originally deeded to that body. It was stated that the association had failed to complete the central group of the memorial within the time limit specified in the contract and that the property thus reverted to the ownership of the Venables. The Venables, in turn, gave the Atlanta chapter the deed to this reverendary interest.

Through the action taken by the Atlanta chapter Tuesday, it now turns back to the Venable family all its claims to the property through the reverendary deed and stipulates specifically that the chapter desires to leave the Venable family unhampered to take whatever legal course the members of that family see fit to take in the matter.

Mrs. Earl Scott read the report of the secretary at the meeting. Mrs. J. T. Ripley presented resolutions upon the recent death of the first vice president, Mrs. Frank Woodruff, which were adopted. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson.

Tuesday night Mr. Venable declined to comment on the action of the chapter. He indicated that he might make a statement at a later date, after conference with his associates.

Lexington Heart of The Bluegrass

When one thinks of Kentucky, Lexington naturally comes to mind at one and the same time. For it is known wherever civilized people meet as one of the most unique and picturesque cities of the world.

And yet Lexington, with all its quaint, historic, romantic, and traditional interest, is an up-to-the-minute, modern city of 60,000 population, with exceptional industrial, commercial, and investment opportunities.

It is located in what is undoubtedly America's greatest potential manufacturing region; it is surrounded by a rich agricultural and live-stock section, and is recognized as a cultural and educational center.

The Blue Grass Region is noted for its rare scenic beauty, its luxurious country estates, its great Thoroughbred Horse-breeding establishments, its huge production of light barley, Tobacco and Blue Grass Seed.

It has been truly said that in the Blue Grass Country one may find the peaceful beauty of England, the rustic scenery of Scotland, the verdure of Ireland, the color of Spain, the sunshine of Italy, and the blue skies of Southern France. At any rate, one finds the climate ideal, the highways perfect, hotels of the best, and a friendly spirit of the people which is refreshing and very much worth while.

What the "OLD RELIABLE" means to LEXINGTON

Lexington enjoys the distinction of having been one terminus of the first railroad in the West—the Lexington and Ohio, chartered on January 27, 1830. This road was opened for service August 15, 1832, and the people of Lexington have enjoyed practically uninterrupted service since, or for over 96 years.

This early railroad is now a part of the L. & N., and, through constant co-operation and the tremendous expansion of its facilities in Eastern Kentucky, the L. & N. feels it has been a very definite factor in the progress and prosperity of this thriving Blue Grass section. Over 200,000 citizens of Lexington are now employed by the L. & N., earning an income of over one-half million dollars yearly. The L. & N. operates 15 passenger trains into and out of Lexington each day and approximately 100 freight trains, thus affording prompt and reliable transportation service for this community.

GEORGIAN RETIRES AS FARMERS' LEADER

Charles S. Barrett Says Only Hope for Aid Is Within Selves.

Denver, Colo., November 20.—(AP) Predicting that the creation of a federal commission for handling the nation's crop surpluses would be the answer to demands for farm relief, Charles S. Barrett, of Union City, Ga., veteran president of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, declared here today that the farmer would still have to work out his own problems, even with legislative aid. He announced his retirement after 22 years in office.

"I am going to make you a prophecy," he told the annual convention of the union, "I am neither advocating nor criticizing, but just telling you what we are going to get. What we shall get we could have had two years ago, a commission and a few hundred million dollars to be put in the hopper."

"With this money and the commission, the problem will have to be worked out. The trail already blazed by the farmers' union will of necessity be the trail to be followed then. It will still be the farmers' problem which we must work out for ourselves. If the commission is good, it will be a great help. If the commission is not a good one—God pity not only the farmers, but every class and calling dependent on agriculture for security and prosperity."

Mr. Barrett said that legislation was needed, but he added there was "no escape from the stern fact that nobody but the farmer can solve the farm problem; that he must do it by looking after his own business; that he must build marketing and financial institutions and then that he must be loyal to them, must patronize them."

During the Palmolive hour to be broadcast over the NBC system at 8:30 o'clock tonight, Olive Palmer and Paul Oliver will be heard in several songs which have been requested in thousands of letters received by these popular artists.

Together they will be heard in "Ah, Moon of My Delight," Olive Palmer's solo, "Polka," and "Fairy Story by the Fire," both of which are extremely popular with those who tune in on the Palmolive hour. The tenor's solo will be the "Kashmir Love Song," which is ideal for the time of his voice.

Director Gustave Haenschen's orchestral numbers are "Pampanola" from "Three Cheers," "Bacchanale" from "On the Green," and "Limehouse Blues," which with the ensemble voices will bring the program to a close.

As usual there will be interesting wood-wind, steel guitar and saxophone numbers and an added feature will be a contralto solo "Fields of Billy Clare." The Palmolive Revelers have chosen "Evening" and "Good Mornin' Virginia" as their numbers and an original augmented feature will be the baritone solo, "Captain Mac."

The complete program follows: Pompanola, from "Three Cheers"; Ensemble; "Fairy Story by the Fire," Soprano Solo; "Ah, Moon of My Delight," Duet; "You Bet I Do," Specialty Orchestra; "Evening," Baritone Solo; "Good Mornin' Virginia," Soprano Solo; "Fields of Billy Clare," Contralto Solo; "Kashmir Love Song," Tenor Solo; "Pampanola," from "Three Cheers"; Ensemble; "Bacchanale," from "On the Green"; "Lime-

RADIOING THE AIR WAVES

BY THE DIAL TWIST.
Just a little more than a week ago, the new broadcasting station assignments went into effect. Mr. and Mrs. Radio Listener, how do you like the new setup? Do you find conditions in and near Atlanta improved? Can you get more distant stations? Is the radio situation in general improved?

The Dial Twister has been cruising around the night airways since the changes went into effect. Our results have not been amazing. There is less interference than before the changes, but there still is far too much.

Atlanta is entitled to the best radio reception possible for any section of the country. Down here, in the third zone, we have had the poorest outlook of any part of the nation. The new radio law was designed to remedy that condition. If the radio commission has not benefited us, then we have a comeback which we should use.

The Dial Twister would like to know how you are receiving the stations you like best. Write your impressions on the radio situation, so far as it affects Atlanta and Georgia. All letters will be referred to the federal radio commission. The commission wants to know how our reception is, and our neighbors also want to know. Comments from your letters will be printed in this column.

NAVAL RADIO TRACING LATIN AMERICAN TOUR

President-Elect Will Be Supplied Entertainment From Many Stations.

BY MARTIN CODEL.
(Copyright, 1922, by the North America Newspaper Alliance.)
Washington, November 20.—Naval radio is tracing President-elect Hoover's course on his good-will tour of Latin America. Radio programs from broadcasting stations in Central and South America, and from a few stations in the United States that may pierce through the heavy static barrier, will furnish entertainment for Mr. Hoover and his party on their voyage on the U. S. S. Maryland and the U. S. S. Utah.

Captain S. C. Hooper, chief of naval communications, reported today that special high frequency installations on the Maryland and Utah will handle all the Hoover party's messages and all press during the entire trip. One of Captain Hooper's assistants, Lieutenant E. E. Stone, until recently radio officer of the Maryland, stated that many of the officers and men have radio receiving sets aboard, and another report said that a set has been installed in Mr. Hoover's quarters.

Additional radio operators were ordered aboard both battleships to handle the tremendous volume of word traffic that is expected. Special arrangements have been made by the navy department so that all messages shall be handled by radio both while the party is at sea and in port. Although most of the tour will be in latitudes marking areas of great static, it is not anticipated that any difficulty will be experienced in contacting with navy radio NPL at San Diego or NPL at Balboa on short waves around thirty-nine meters. From these stations the messages will be relayed directly to radio central at Washington, and thence to their destinations via the regular commercial telegraph systems.

Portsmouth, Va., November 20.—(AP)—Miss Lucy H. Ball, 25, of this city, daughter of E. P. Ball, auditor of station accounts of the Seaboard Air Line railroad, either fell or jumped to her death here today from the fifth story of an office building. She was killed almost instantly.

Office workers said that she walked to a window and without warning disappeared over the ledge to land on the pavement below.

When the Banker talks with the Engineer about PAVEMENTS

Both banker and engineer to be successful, must be keen judges of value. When they talk pavements, the truth comes out.

The banker knows that brick pavements are a safe investment for any community. Long life; less upkeep. He will tell you that they are thoroughly satisfactory even after 20 to 30 years of hard use and exposure to weather. They outlast the bonds.

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat, tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, a purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all.

No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

Get a family package, containing full directions, only 35 cents. At any drug store.—(adv.)

COLE'S HOT BLAST

In the ordinary heater from 35 to 90 per cent of the fuel is wasted up the chimney. The gases that give most intense heat are wasted because they cannot get enough air to be oxidized. This is prevented in the Cole Heater by the RED TUBE that burns up all the gases—puts them to work.

The RED TUBE introduces an over-draft of air that utilizes all the fuel, the hot gases and the solid fuel. Thus the Cole Heater gives more heat with much less fuel.

Many Social Courtesies Honor Visitors and Recent Bride

A long time it has been since a more novel and fascinating form of entertainment has been planned by a young Atlanta hostess than that to be enjoyed this evening when charming Miss Mary Harvey will be hostess at an old-fashioned "possum hunt" on the estate surrounding her lovely suburban home on Argonne drive. This interesting hunt is to honor a trio of charming belles, Miss Jette Baker, of Lynchburg, Va., the lovely guest of Miss Augusta Porter at her home on the Prado; Miss Betty Brown, a fete belle of Jacksonville, Fla., the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Wellborn at their home on Peachtree road, and Miss Eleanor Maude, an attractive debutante of the season, also a bride couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGhee, Jr., whose marriage was a brilliant event of September.

Miss Baker and Miss Porter are to spend a pleasant hour during the afternoon at a bridge party given in their honor by Miss Adair McCarley at her home in West End.

A charming recent bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. John Calhoun, of San Antonio, who are spending the greater part of their honeymoon in Atlanta with Mr. Calhoun's mother, Mrs. A. E. Calhoun, at her home on Inman circle, are being feted at a number of social affairs. One of the most beautiful parties on the day's program of social events will be the dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Calhoun will entertain at their palatial home on Paces Ferry road.

Felicians Endow Bed At Eggleston Hospital.

The Felicians met Monday afternoon in the auxiliary room of the Columbia club, 1290 Peachtree, with Miss Rose Moran presiding, Mrs. Felix De Golan, chairman of entertainment, reported the next dance would be given during the Christmas holidays, the exact date to be announced later. Mrs. Dowdell Brown reported that after all arrangements had been made for the bed, the Catholic ladies had endowed at Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital there was a surplus over the initial cost and Mrs. Brown asked permission to use this money for a drinking fountain which is needed at the hospital, and the members unanimously voted to do so. Tea was served by Mrs. James Harvey, chairman of hospitality, assisted by Mrs. J. B. Reynolds and Mrs. R. J. Martin.

Miss Broome Given Tea by Hostess.

Miss Betty Broome, of Jacksonville, Fla., the attractive guest of Mrs. William Wellborn, was central figure at the tea given by her hostess Tuesday at her home on Peachtree road. The center of the tea table was graced by a basket filled with yellow chrysanthemums and other fall flowers of the same shade. Mrs. Lawrence Vickery, Mrs. Walter Wellborn, Miss Mary Harvey and Miss Virginia Courts assisted in entertaining. The guests included a few friends of the hostess and honor guest.

Jewish Women Prepare Splendid Program on Peace

The Atlanta section of the national council of Jewish Women met Monday, November 10, in the vestry of the temple. The council had as its guests the Temple Sisterhood.

The business of the meeting was omitted due to a splendid program having been arranged by Mrs. Leonard Haas and Mrs. Harry Garshon, consisting of a round table discussion of peace and the means to bring it about as a lasting proposition. Mrs. Leonard Haas told the present status of the United States in regard to world peace and urged that the women of America use their influence to get the multi-lateral treaty ratified. The steps up to the framing of the treaty were explained. A discussion and history of the League of Nations was presented by Mrs. Harry Garshon. The history of the world court and how it stands today in regard to the United States becoming a member was given by Mrs. Harry Garshon. Full and complete explanation of the multi-lateral treaty was given by Miss Isabelle Clarke. Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs gave a report of the meeting in Athens held last year.

A resolution urging the senators to vote for the ratification of the multi-lateral treaty was read to the membership and adopted.

Bulldogs Will Play Tarheels at Chapel Hill Next Season

Two Schools Sign Contract For 4 Games

Second Game Will Be Played at Athens in New Stadium; Dates for Games Not Set.

Chapel Hill, N. C., November 20. The University of North Carolina and the University of Georgia have signed a four-year contract in football and will meet here next season on the gridiron for the first time in fifteen years, it was announced here tonight by Charles T. Woolen, university graduate manager of athletics. The exact dates are yet to be arranged, Mr. Woolen stated.

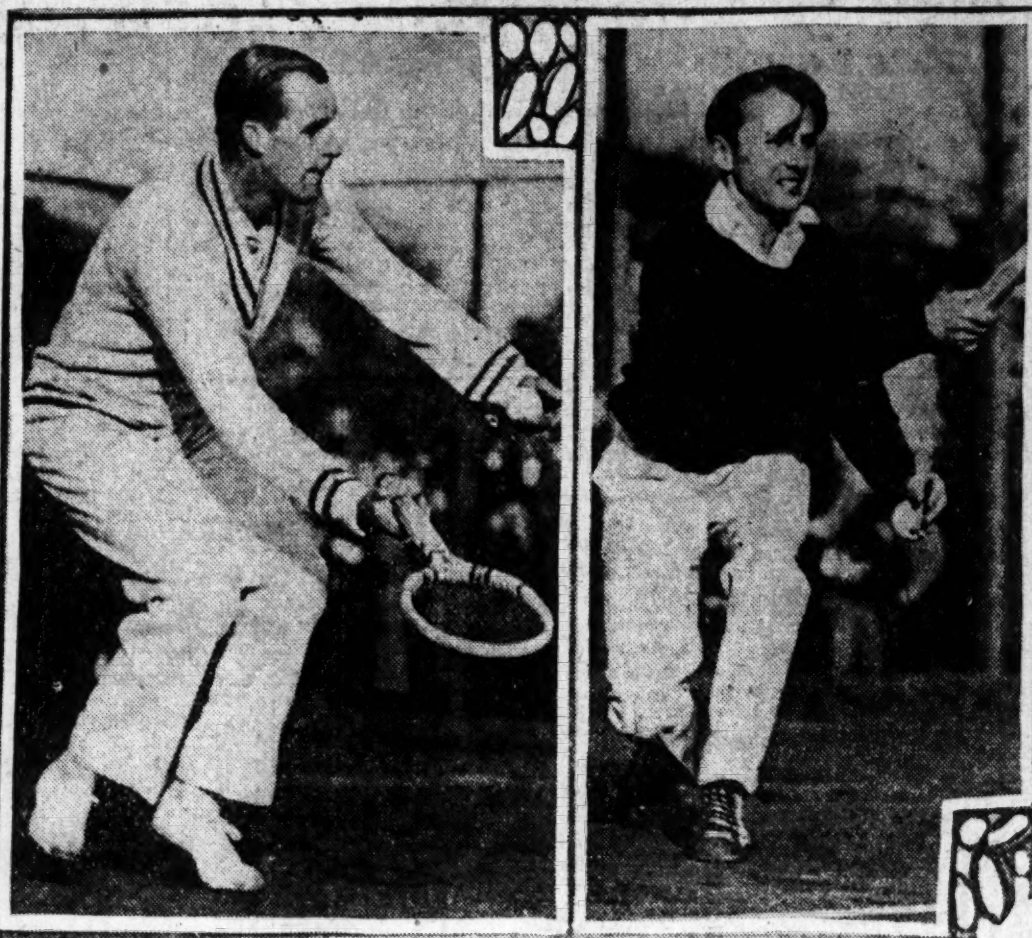

The first of the four games here next year is to be played in Kenan Memorial stadium the university's new gridiron, which seats 25,000. The next year the game is to be played in Georgia's new stadium in Athens, which is now being constructed and is to be dedicated with the Georgia-Yale game next fall.

Games to Alternate.
The following two years, 1931 and 1932, the games are to alternate in the same way, with Georgia coming to Chapel Hill 1931 and North Carolina going to Athens in 1932. The signing of Georgia is regarded as a master stroke on the part of Graduate Manager Woolen, who handled the negotiations for the university. It is known that several other big institutions in the south were actively seeking the contract that was awarded the university. The plan is to play either Georgia or Georgia Tech in Chapel Hill each year. The Tarheels will play Tech at Atlanta next year and here the following year if satisfactory dates can be arranged, and there seems little doubt that they will be arranged.

Use Same System.

Georgia and North Carolina both use the Notre Dame system of play. Georgia is coached this year by Harry Mehre and Jim Crowley, former Notre Dame stars. Crowley being one of the famous four horsemen. The Tarheels are coached by Chuck Collins, Bill Carney and Bob Fetter, Collins and Carney being former Notre Dame players. Collins played end on the four horsemen team of 1924. North Carolina and Georgia last met on the gridiron in 1913, when the Tarheels won, 41 to 6, the team being captained by Dave Taylor the year before Georgia had defeated the Tarheels, 19 to 6.

The SPORTLIGHT

THE BATTLE ON THE COAST.
There was a general feeling along the Pacific coast early in the year that Pop Warner had one of his best teams at Stanford, one of the best he has coached in years. And when Pop has the material he is poison for any one. In the face of these returns Southern California beat Stanford, 10-0, after Southern California and California had turned in a 0-0 tie. Now Pop sends his Stanford team against a strong California team this week—Saturday—at Berkeley, and there is still a feeling up and down the coast that Stanford will prove its place by beating the team that tied Southern California that beat Stanford. Stanford has two backfield stars in Hoffman and Fleishacker, and two star guards who have played fine football all year. Post especially being at a consistently high plane. If Stanford can beat California on Saturday part of the early belief in Stanford's strength will be justified and the Army can look out for trouble next week in New York.

The Same Problem.
Chick Mehan and New York University have the same problem. Stanford isn't too good for continued staidness, no matter how strong the team. West and East on Rampage.
Dear Sir: The western conference is going in for interconference games on a wholesale scale next season. Ohio State will play Navy and Pittsburgh Illinois meets Army; Chicago resumes relations with Princeton; Northwestern likely will tackle Dartmouth and Michigan has Harvard for a guest. The western conference highly favors interconference games that do not require too much traveling and where the games may be played on a college field. With Yale breaking away from old traditions and traveling to Georgia, there soon will be no such thing as eastern, western and southern football.

Paging No Picnic.
Dear Sir: Whoever succeeds Dr. John Wiley at Ohio State university will have good reasons for being a brave man. All he must do is prepare a team capable of meeting Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, Pittsburgh, Northwestern, Navy and Illinois on successive week ends.

Another Entry.
Dear Sir: After seven western conference eleven in action, my vote goes to Willie Glasgow, of Iowa, as the best back of that circuit. He's a far more valuable player than McLain, of the same team. Glasgow is the nearest approach to Gordon Locke the west has seen since the big Hawk of 1922 finished his college days. He drives with terrific force, pivots rapidly and holds his feet well.

Where the Rest Doesn't Matter.
There are certain games on the schedule where interest boils up to the top of the kettle, regardless of what may have happened to the remainder of the season. Chief of these is the Yale-Harvard melee, dating back into the dim dawn of the game. Yale and Princeton have been a rivalry—almost, but not quite. It is the Crimson glitters that turn up the heat. And the Blue flag that churns up the Crimson. When they meet it is a case of "Never mind the rest of it—here we are again." And this means a football game to the ultimate ounce and inch that each has to give.

The same is practically true of the Stanford-California game, Army and Notre Dame, Georgia and Georgia Tech, Penn and Cornell—to mention only a few.

One of the fine points about football is that it doesn't need two winners to keep the interest going. In almost every other sport it does. At least every other sport—practically—requires one winner on the card to keep the excitement blinding. There are any number of rivalries in football now where the opposing teams have lost almost every game—and they try to get a few tickets when they meet.

In these traditional battles you can also throw out most of the past performance charts. Quite frequently, at least, Old Doc Psychology has his biggest day in these traditional affairs where the Indiana swimmer always brings his teeth into the pit.

In looking over the exchanges the number of those who "can't" possibly be left off an All-American eleven has reached the slight total of 114. But there are still two weeks left for any number of additions.

New Water Record.
Buenos Aires, November 20.—(AP)—The Argentine Olympic swimmer, Alberto Zorilli, broke the world's record for 400 meters backstroke, swimming the distance in 5 minutes and 47.2 seconds. The previous record held by the Belgian swimmer, G. Blits, was 5 minutes, 50 seconds.

Tilden Shows Hagen Will Captain U. S. Ryder Cup Team

Former Net King Displays Fast Serve in Two Contests With Atlantans.

BY BEN COTHMAN.
William T. Tilden, the actor, closed up shop Tuesday afternoon and returned to his old love, playing in two exhibition matches against local talent at the Atlanta Tennis club before something like 1,000 people, shivering and quaking before a stiff November breeze.

Tilden first played young Bryan Grant, the best in this part of the country. Tilden won. The score was 6-2, 6-1. Then he took the doubles court against young Grant and Jack Simpson. The two Atlantans, after dropping the first set, 6-2, got to Tilden and took the next two, 6-3, 6-3. Bill, it seemed, was slightly tired, and kept experimenting with trick shots, but still the steady, even returns of the two Atlantans mustn't be forgotten.

Tilden Enjoys Self.
There were times Tuesday when Tilden played around, enjoying himself immensely, seeming to get one huge kick out of playing. Then just as suddenly as he changed his pace, he would flash through with a brilliant shot that brought "ohs" and "aahs" from frigid fans.

At times he displayed his famous cannonball service, the ball straking across the net and into a far corner of the service court with the rapidity of a bullet. There were other shots; he drove on both the forehand and backhand; his change of pace, wherein Tilden drives the ball at a mile-a-minute pace to the baseline one time and then drops it to the net the next, which barely clears the net.

It wasn't, of course, the Tilden of a national championship. Tilden is out of his now and then just his means of recreation. Therefore he played to enjoy himself and he did, at the same time giving those who braved the cold weather an opportunity to watch his masterful game.

Grand Is Lauded.
Asked about young Grant, Tilden broke out in a large grin and remarked, "Say, that kid is good. He has a well-rounded, varied game and naturally there are faults to be corrected but none of them are glaring. He's got to have a little more of him. I like his style."

Tilden and Grant contrasted strangely on the court. Tilden was tall, broad-shouldered, big, billowy, over Grant, rather diminutive in stature. Tilden, moving easily and gracefully from one side of the court to the other, usually on the run. The latter kept pecking away with his soft, stroking returns and there were times when Tilden's frequent cautions, Tilden hit-footed with well-placed returns.

It took Tilden all of the first set to get into a groove. He was on him on even terms until the former champion managed to draw away and take the set 6-4. It was in the second set that he played most brilliantly. He had Grant 5-0 before the latter won a game.

Tilden, for some reason, elected to take the net at great Tuesday. The big fellow is essentially a base-line player, his powerful driving not necessitating these net skirmishes. But Tuesday, as he remarked himself, he went "bouncing into the net with all the steam and abandon of a young athlete."

The first set Tilden went to Tilden with little opposition by a score of 6-2. Then with the two Atlantans improving while Tilden seemed to weary a bit, the next two sets were won by the home side by scores of 6-3, 6-3. Tilden thundered through with terrific drives on more than one occasion and there was one time when he whizzed over a return that caught Grant in the side and the former champion hit half-way around.

Tilden's speed is dazzling not only in his returns but in the way in which he moves around the court. It makes for fast play and keeps interest up at all times.

Following a brief intermission, Tilden moved over to a doubles court and took the first set 6-2. He was on him on even terms until the former champion managed to draw away and take the set 6-4. It was in the second set that he played most brilliantly. He had Grant 5-0 before the latter won a game.

Howreen To Keep Post, Chief States
Cambridge, Mass., November 20.—(AP)—Published reports that Arnold Howreen, Harvard football coach, would be succeeded next year by "Eddie" Casey, present freshman coach, today brought forth a statement from William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard. He said that if any changes in the Harvard coaching staff are made they will be announced through the Harvard Athletic association.

"Neither Mr. Howreen or myself will have anything more to say on the matter."

Irish Arrange Schedule for '29

South Bend, Ind., November 20.—(United News)—Notre Dame will meet ten opponents on the gridiron in 1929. Coach Knute Rockne announced today, three of whom will be western conference teams.

Eight of the ten games have been definitely contracted, although dates have not been arranged. Two other games, one of which is expected to be with Southern California, will be added.

The scheduled games include: Army at New York. Navy at Baltimore. Wisconsin at South Bend. Northwestern at Evanston. Indiana at Bloomington. Georgia Tech at Atlanta. Pittsburgh at South Bend. Drake at Chicago. Carnegie Tech will not be played in 1929, Rockne said, but a contract has been made for a game in 1930.

Hagen Will Captain U. S. Ryder Cup Team

Squad To Invade England Next Spring for Biennial Trophy Matches With Professionals.

Cleveland, November 20.—(AP)—Walter Hagen was indorsed by the Professional Golfers Association of America today to captain the United States Ryder cup team of professional golfers which will go to England next spring for the biennial meeting with the Great Britain team. The honor went to Hagen when Leo Diegel, who defeated the former P. G. A. title holder, demurred in favor of him. Though he took the national pro championship from Hagen after the latter held it for four consecutive years Diegel said he considered Walter the logical man to head the American team.

"I appreciate the honor," he told officers of the association when offered the captaincy, "but I think Walter is much the better man for the job. He has been captain before and knows the ropes overas better than I do." Hagen was captain of the American outfit that trimmed the Britons in this country last year.

The association also recommended a list of twelve leading professionals of the United States from which the American team, numbering ten members will be selected. In addition to Hagen and Diegel, they are: Gene Sarazen, Joe Turnesa, Johnny Farrell, William Klein, Billy Burke and John Golden, all of New York; Horton Smith of Joplin Mo., Al Espinosa of Chicago, Ed Dudley of Los Angeles and Al Watrous, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

ZBYSZKO WINS IN QUICK TIME AT MAT SHOW
BY CLARENCE NIXON.
"Old Man" Zbyszko may be Old Man Zbyszko to some people but to one George Hill, 220-pound Chicagoan, he is a very young and capable man. Zibzy proved this Tuesday night when he spilled the big lumberjack in quick order to the satisfaction of the fans present at the city auditorium. Zibzy won the match by taking two straight falls from his younger opponent.

Zbyszko's knowledge of the bone-crushing game and his stubborn resistance proved too much for the younger man and it was an easy matter for the old man to pin his shoulders.

First Fall Quickly.
Zbyszko took the first fall of the match after 16 minutes had passed. The match started slowly but soon turned into a fast and pinning affair. The old man waited, tiring his opponent, then applied his crick hold and pinned Hill in quick fashion. The next fall came in just five minutes of wrestling after the intermission. Zbyszko used the same methods to win his second fall. Hill, after losing the first fall, tried to get rough, but could do nothing. He got as much as he sent.

The middle match of the evening was a very good wrestling match, mixed with some rough stuff on the part of Mr. Jack Washburn, who finally was thrown by his younger and snorter opponent, Paul Harper, a good looking Texan. Harper, who tipped the scales at 205, and who looks more like a dancing instructor than a wrestler, outwitted Washburn at every turn and after a series of many kinds of holds flopped Washburn, face up and shoulders flat on the mat, in just 22 minutes and 10 seconds to defeat his rougher foe, who scaled 210 pounds.

DeGlanne Wins.
Henri DeGlanne, the husky French champion, took the Kier Kaplan, Jewish title holder or claimant to the crown, over the brook after some 26 minutes of grappling in which there was some good wrestling.

DeGlanne, a little but powerful fellow, was forced to the limit to outdo the stubborn Mr. Kaplan. The Jewish wrestler, big as a strong himself, gave the former Olympic champion plenty to worry about and for a while seemed as if he would pin his shoulder.

He tussled, grunted and slapped about the ring but all the time the Frenchman was taking his measure. A series of front headlocks put Kaplan on the floor amid many taunts from the well known little birdies.

COACH ROCKNE'S 'SHOCK TROOPS' GIVEN A REST
South Bend, Ind., November 20.—(AP)—Knute Rockne has again ordered the rest cure for his shocked "shock troops" of Notre Dame.

The teamsters, who have had to carry the full burden this season because of the weakness of the reserves, are underweight and badly bruised. Rockne plans to give them a rest until Thursday. They will leave Sunday night for their gridiron battle with the undefeated University of Southern California eleven.

Gridiron Claims Victim Number 15
New York, November 20.—(AP)—The death here of Mark Carey, Folsom, W. Va., high school player, was the fifteenth fatal injury of the current football season.

Carey suffered a blistered heel during a football game against Chester High school. Blood poisoning developed and the boy, who was 16, died yesterday.

Of the 15 fatal accidents, only three involved college players. These were Miles Fox, of the Naval academy eleven; James Fenton, of Holy Cross, and Leo Godreau, of Villanova. All the other victims were high school or sand lot players.

Few Gridiron Kings of 1927 Will Repeat

Carnage Has Been Heavy This Year With Georgia Tech, U.S.C. Only on Top.

BY ALAN J. GOULD.
Associated Press Sports Editor.
New York, November 20.—(AP)—The parties in football power at the close of the 1927 season seem to have been tossed out of the picture. This year with little or no ceremony. In fact, of the seven main groups scattered about the country, only two of the erstwhile office-holding teams have a chance to repeat. These two are Southern California in the Pacific Coast conference and Georgia Tech in the southern conference and neither had an altogether undisputed hold on the top last season.

U. S. C. and Stanford were deadlocked on the coast last year. This season the Trojans are being paced by California. Their best chance to be established alone at the top is for California to be knocked over by Stanford this week in the far west's annual "big game."

Tech Now on Top.
Georgia Tech dislodged its old rival, Georgia, from the top rung last year. The Yellow Jackets figure to repeat this victory, but even so, they may have to debate the southern leadership with Tennessee or Florida, if not Virginia Poly and Louisiana State.

Elsewhere the carnage among the old champions has been heavy. Yale and Pittsburgh, which disputed the mythical eastern title last year, are in the background now while Carnegie, Boston college, New York university, Army, Princeton and Georgetown figure in the concluding arguments.

Illinois has been bumped off the Big Ten peak with Wisconsin now in the lead, but needing a victory over Minnesota, no trifling assignment, to keep the top.

Nebraska Certain.
Nebraska has all but clinched the Big Six championship by defeating Missouri valley, where the University of Missouri set the 1927 pace, though not without a dispute with the Cornhuskers.

Jim Mullen Back In Good Standing
Chicago, November 20.—(AP)—Jim Mullen, Chicago's leading boxing promoter, was back in good standing with the state athletic commission today, but his expensively equipped gymnasium has been taken over by Dave Barry, former Canadian lightweight champion.

Barry will reopen the gymnasium tomorrow and will give special attention to amateur boxing.

Mullen was suspended by the commission for failure to pay the customary state tax following the recent Dave Barry-Kene De Vos bout. He explained he forgot to pay because he was busy in the political campaign. His gymnasium was closed by creditors.

Harvard and Yale Will Clash Saturday In Traditional Climax of '28 Season

Other Elevens In East Drill For Last Tilts

Close Games Are Anticipated When Many Rivals Tangle on Gridirons.

New York, November 20.—(AP)—Yale's prospects for victory over Harvard Saturday in the annual set-to between these two ancient rivals brightened considerably today when it became known that Garvey and Decker will probably take the field for the Elis.

These two stars of the Bulldogs have been out with injuries and it was feared they could not go when the starting whistle shrills.

Another grueling practice session behind closed doors was held at Cambridge where Harvard is getting ready. There are prospects that Tom Gilligan will move into Art French's half-back post and that French will play quarterback against the Elis.

Other lineup changes and rumors of them furnished news in eastern college football ranks today.

While Advisory Coach Wally Steffen, of Carnegie Tech, indicated that he was satisfied with the Tartan array that crushed Notre Dame, Chick Meahan, of New York university, sprang a surprise when he announced that he would start his "whipped" back, Dudley Hornell, of Medford, Mass., against the Engineers at Pittsburgh this Saturday.

Hornell is one of the smallest men playing intercollegiate football. He stands barely five feet, three inches and scales under 200 pounds. The insertion of Hornell into the Violet backfield apparently indicated that Meahan is seeking to add speed and deception to New York university's offensive against the unbeaten Carnegie eleven.

While all but two of Princeton's regulars were given another day of rest, Navy's midshipmen were worked hard on a defense against Tiger plays at Annapolis. Using Nebraska plays, Army's scrubs scored against the varsity and broke through for long gains. The most recent was against Dartmouth, the only other eastern college playing an intercollegiate opponent, spent most of its time working on its aerial attack, a weapon Northwestern may find difficult to parry at Evans-ton.

found the cold weather to their liking and went through a spirited drill against 'Illini formations. Wilce will have practically his entire strength to throw into the game at Champaign Friday night, but inflammation of the joints put the Pennsylvania out of action.

A substitute was named in Andy Mitchell, of Long Beach, Calif., record and ability almost totally unknown to the fistic fraternity.

Promptly at their meeting the sons removed Mitchell from the lists as an unsuitable opponent. It was revealed that none of the aspirants for Tunney's throne cared to mingle with the Macon youngster, veteran at 23 of 23 battles, 105 of them knock-outs sprinkled through every division from the lightweights up. The bout was abandoned and Stribling was left to wait for a more suitable opponent.

It seems as though a slot at Stribling, who knocked out Johnny Squire in two rounds where it took Johnny Squire ten to win a decision, failed to appeal to Pauline Tendon, Jack Sharkey, Knute Hansen, or any other considered in the top flight.

Tommy Loughran would fight him but wanted more time for training and Tom Heeney has not yet returned to active work.

Georgia Favorite.

The Georgian, just now, is the favorite of many of New York's cauliflower connoisseurs for one of the corner seats in the ring where the next heavyweight champion will be crowned, and money makers are likely to be in the ring.

These critics point out that Stribling, although he rarely has shown to advantage in New York, has an equal balance of acrobatic cleverness and punching power. 185 pounds of bone and muscle, and the experience of only hundreds of bouts can give. He still is the schoolboy in appearance, unmarked, and he has been decidedly beaten in a ring only by Paul Bernbach.

Doan's Dispelled.

The belief that Stribling was "burned out" early in a career that began when he turned 16 has been pretty much dispelled by the southerner's showing against Squires and Martin Burke, the gangling New Orleans heavyweight who fought Tunney 35 rounds and trained Dempsey for several years. Gene never floored Burke, but Stribling twice knocked out the lanky red head, once in 45 seconds and again in 1 minute and 15 seconds.

In many ways, Stribling's career has been the most fanciful in the history of boxing. From his early childhood days, his parents, "Pa" and "Ma" Stribling, trained him for the ring and a career that was denied his father. At three and one-half years he was featured in vaudeville as an acrobat with his parents and for 12 years toured the country in the rings and trapeze. He has performed in every state in the union, dozens of foreign countries, and was in Venezuela and San Domingo, while revolutions were on.

Takes to Boxing.

Full-week stands in country towns eventually made diversion necessary in the act of the "Four Novelty Gang" as "W. L." took to boxing exhibitions on the stage with his young brother, "R. H." He became so good around 1918 and 1920 that he began inviting youngsters onto the stage to box with them, promising to do no harm, and offering $10 to anyone who could knock him out. His sixteenth birthday present was his first professional boxing contract.

So unsatisfactory have the preferences of the heavyweight workmen become to Tex Rickard that he is considering a new method of pairing the heavyweights. The promoter wants the boxing fathers to put all the names in a hat and draw out the pairings. He has suggested it to the best of the sole supporter to date is himself.

'SWEDE' GEBERT IS OUTSTANDING IN MID-WEST

BY OLIVER KUECHLE.

Copyright, 1923, by North American Newspaper Alliance.

Among the outstanding heavyweights of the middle west this fall is Walter "Swede" Gebert, Marquette university captain, who has been termed by his coach and by many who have seen him play "the halfback without a weakness."

Gebert, whom Coach Frank J. Murray of Marquette says he wouldn't trade for any other halfback in the country, is in his senior year. He is a powerful half-back with all the tricks of the trade, being adept at kicking, punting, twisting his hips to shake off tacklers and knowing how to fall. He has played in every variety game since his sophomore year, and hasn't yet been taken out for injuries.

Not only as a ball-totter does Gebert shine. He is a good passer and dependable punter, a drop-kicker, a good receiver, a fine blocker and an excellent defensive man. Despite all his long runs he still gets his biggest personal "kick" from "kicking."

"Swede" Gebert is not a Swede, but a German. He got the nickname from his blond hair. They tell of him that he learned how to catch passes by tossing old tin cans around with "the gang" in his home town, Merrill, Wis., where he starred in all sports in his prep days. He weighs 175, and is 21 years old.

The Swede is also captain-elect of the Marquette basketball team, the first man to lead two variety teams in one year. He is taking the medical course.

Elimination Halted Until Rivals Found

Loughran Wants More Time; Heeney on Vacation; Uzdun, Sharkey Say 'No'

BY EDWARD J. NEIL.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, November 20.—(AP)—If the heavyweights tethered in Tex Rickard's pastures show as little inclination to mix with each other as they have with Young Stribling, the southland's particular fistic pride, the current crop of elimination contests promises nothing but wide yawns and a general absence of customers.

The Georgian's hope of doing some work on the job of eliminating was blasted by much at least by the New York state athletic commission today. Stribling was destined to fight Jack Dorval in Madison Square Garden Friday night, but inflammation of the joints put the Pennsylvania out of action.

A substitute was named in Andy Mitchell, of Long Beach, Calif., record and ability almost totally unknown to the fistic fraternity.

Four Polo Games Set For Fort This Week

Oglethorpe's Army Quartets Send Horses Here For Tilts Thursday and Sunday.

With the arrival Tuesday of twenty choice polo ponies, one officer and eleven attendants from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., activities began taking shape for two polo games Thursday, an afternoon of gymkhana events Saturday and two polo games Sunday.

For Thursday's games two Fort Oglethorpe teams will be matched against the two local teams beginning at 2 p. m. Each of the two games will be of six-chukker duration, the Fort Oglethorpe team starting in the first game against the Fort Oglethorpe Freebooters and the Governor's Horse Guard team taking on the Oglethorpe Cavalry team in the second tilt.

Saturday, beginning at 2 p. m., a program of gymkhana events covering 10 different features and expected to require two and one-half hours to execute has been provided for. All proceeds from this afternoon of events, over and above actual expenses, are to go to swell the coffers of the Atlanta Community Chest.

Sunday at 2 p. m. the Governor's Horse Guard will start activities by playing a six-chukker game against the Fort Oglethorpe Freebooters. This tilt will be followed by Fort Oglethorpe Cavalry team.

The Fort Oglethorpe Cavalry players are: Lieutenant H. L. Hodes, at No. 1; Captain G. X. Cheves at No. 2; Lieutenant J. L. Ryan at No. 3; and Lieutenant R. E. Ireland, at No. 4. Lieutenant Ireland and Captain Cheves are each rated as two-goal players.

THE YOUNG PRETENDERS

By Alice Grant Rosman

SYNOPSIS. While lying helpless in bed after a motor accident, Hugo Donaldson broods over the fact that his father, with whom he had quarreled just before the smash, has never come into his room to visit him. He decides that he must be dead and that his mother and the servants are keeping it from him. His aunt, Lady Eleanor Wins, a great gossip, comes to call and tells Hugo that his friend, Paul Mostyn, is in prison for stealing and that he has married some girl of whom his family disapproved and that Hugo's mother and expected to marry Paul and is heartbroken over the affair. Hugo, who believes, has been the victim of blackmailers and his family, because of his marriage, had failed to stand up for him in the affair. Hugo assures Paul, but because of her lifelong friendship for him she would like to help him. Sir John Wins, a famous nerve specialist, is called in to see Hugo and offers him some hope of recovery.

THE HAPPY GODFATHER.

Hugo tore open the envelope. "Dear Hugo," he read. "Your godson, Hugo William Mostyn Anstruther, salutes you, or would if he were not still too busy with celestial matters to speak at present. Bill and I elected you unanimously to the ancient and honorable company of godfathers before our son was born, deciding that, apart from your taste in socks when we saw you last, you were cut on a rather decent pattern. It is no good your protesting, for your election has been ratified by church and state, a Lancer friend of Bill's standing proxy for you.

"The proxy was distinctly annoyed about it and said 'Who is this fellow, Donaldson, that you consider him a better man than me?' and Bill, being an officer and a gentleman and always courteous to a guest, replied: 'You illiterate lout, my son's godparent is pursuing paths of learning at a place called Oxford, where slaughter of our mother tongue is met with instant death and professional murderers like you could never penetrate.' Bloodshed was averted by the tactful intervention of Hugo II, who said 'Come and have a drink, or words to that effect.

"Said Hugo the second to Hugo the first.

"I've arrived in this world with a terrible thirst.

When I've drunk up the rivers and swallowed the sea, I'll walk home to England, arriving for tea."

"Now what you have to do, my lad, is to choose him a nice godmother-in-law, as you will have to see quite a lot of your namesake, when India's coral strand becomes a bed for him and school in England looms ahead."

"Bill wishes me to say that young Anstruther is a hefty chap, weigh nine and a half pounds without his boots. He (Bill) is not yet a major general, because merit counts for nothing in a jealous world, but what shall be, shall be and what isn't is not."

"With these profound reflections by the Sage of Simla, I will close.

"Best of luck, old godfather, and love from ALISON MOSTYN, WILLIAM ANSTRUTHER."

"HUGO WILLIAM MOSTYN."

He was a godfather! If he had been suddenly made chancellor of the exchequer, Hugo could not have been more glib and eloquent in his friendly gesture from Alison and Bill.

He read the letter again. Not a word about Paul, but then they couldn't have heard the news at the time of writing nor of his misadventure, either. There was something very consoling to Hugo in that, for it showed him that their thought of him had not been born of mere pity. They really wanted him to be the godfather of the little chap.

To Hugo, three years younger than Alison and five years younger than Bill, and still a schoolboy at the time of their marriage, it was astonishing that these elder playmates of his childhood should have thought of him at all, yet they actually liked him and made him the godfather of their son.

There was not quite such a glow about this as the revelation of Paul's affection had brought him, but a glow, none the less. Paul, Hugo, Alison, and Bill. With such friends a fellow could not after all feel quite shut out from the world.

"Said Hugo the second to Hugo the first."

He learned the foolish little rhyme with a chuckle of delight. Bunnies would enjoy this and she would be coming tomorrow. He could hear her shout of laughter at Alison's absurdity.

"I have a poem now as well as you," he'd say to her. "Alison's writing."

Hugo well, though secretly pleased at the honor conferred upon him, would have been none the less shy and embarrassed about it; but the new Hugo, shut in a world grown small and strange, wanted to shout the tidings aloud.

"Portal, I'm a godfather," he announced proudly to the sedate figure at the dividing door.

"Well, I never," said Portal. "Not nice? Excuse me asking, sir, but is it a little girl?"

"Giddy!" shouted the invalid in an outraged tone. "Hang it all, Portal, you surely don't see me being the godfather of a girl? This is a hefty fellow weighing nine and a half pounds without his boots . . . Hugo William Mostyn Anstruther. You can't call a girl Hugo. And he lives in India. What do you think of that?"

"O, the poor little fellow. Not among all those dreadful naked savages, Mr. Hugo? Why they'd frighten any child to death. I've seen them on the pictures and that's quite enough for me. Wicked, I call it," said Portal.

"Don't you worry about young Anstruther," said Hugo smiling at her. "I say, Portal, you think you could move the desk across because I must write to the chap. I'm a man with responsibilities now."

Portal moved the desk and gave him a blotter, note paper, and his fountain pen. Then, seeing him begin his letter, smiling cheerfully to himself, she went back to Tright's room. He'd never be able to write a letter lying like that, Portal knew, but it was not her place to tell him so, the poor young gentleman, so pleased about being a godfather.

Wicked, Portal called it.

"Dear Anstruther," wrote Hugo the first to Hugo the second. "Here's luck, old sport. You're a fine chap, I must say. . . ."

The writer paused, for it was laborious business. His hand ached already and he couldn't keep the blotter at a proper angle. He tried a dozen ways, but it wouldn't keep steady and the effort nearly drove him to distraction.

"Damn!" swore Hugo and let the pen drop, a wave of desperate bitterness sweeping over him. A nice sort of crock they had given the little chap for a godfather, lying here on his silly four-wheeled bed in this pretty, pretty room. He pictured Hugo II, coming home some day and finding him like this.

"God! I hope I'll be dead," cried Hugo.

Tright, returning by and by from his two hours' off, came in with a look of self-complaisance and the patient, struggling into his armour of false good cheer, announced in rather a sick tone:

"I'm a godfather, Tright."

"That's right," said Tright, too much engrossed with his own cleverness to give the statement much attention. "I've brought the young lady I spoke of, sir—Mrs. Hallett—to read the newspapers to you once a day. As I said to her ladyship, it might be a very good arrangement and Sir John Wins agreed with my judgment absolutely. Her ladyship is interviewing Mrs. Hallett now and between you and me she has quite taken to her. I believe. All being well, she will bring her up to see you, it being agreed that as it's you that's to be read to you should be consulted."

"O, good," said Hugo.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, November 20.—(AP)—Corn advanced rapidly in price today, and carried other grain along, with deferred deliveries of corn going to within 1-2c of the season's highest level.

Trans-Atlantic estimates that Europe will require 120,000,000 bushels of United States corn, of which only 34,000,000 bushels have been bought thus far, attracted widespread notice, flood reports from the southwest counting as a bullish influence. Increased estimates of needs of wheat were likewise at hand.

Closing quotations on corn were strong, 1 1/2 to 3 1/4c net higher, with 1-2 to 3 1/4c net unchanged to 1-4c advance, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 3 cents.

Upturns in the value of corn accompanied advances that Argentina appears to be leaving the European corn market practically to this country, with no shipments of Argentine corn expected to reach Europe until next June. Furthermore, arrivals of corn in Chicago today were reduced to as few as 32 cars, against 457 cars a week ago and 176 cars on the corresponding day last year. Meanwhile, farmers were expressed in some quarters that food conditions especially in the Mississippi valley, would damage corn still in the fields, and bring about material delay in the crop movement.

Country offerings of corn today to arrive were slim, and other markets were reported as out-bidding Chicago at down-state points up to the close. In this connection, talk was current that taken as a whole, the movement of corn during November has been above normal, but has not been so much as summer, yet, permitting little or no accumulation of stocks. Under such circumstances, the advance today in corn prices continued right up to the close. Oats showed some sympathy with corn, but were inclined to lag.

In the wheat market an outstanding feature was the report that world requirements of wheat for the season ending July 1, 1929. The new estimates, totaling 880,000,000 bushels, were spoken of as about the largest ever known. It was also announced that export sales of No. 2 hard domestic wheat, Grade A, from the United States, had been made today at the same price as Chicago May delivery. Provisions averaged lower, reflecting a downturn in hog values.

Total stock sales, 6,811,900 shares.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

New York, November 20.—(AP)—

With seemingly boundless confidence

the future of industrial America and bottomless bank rolls, the growing host of stock buyers again made the stock market surge and boom never before today's session, however,

of sales flurried with the 7,000,000

share mark more earnestly than ever before, and the hopelessly inadequate

tickler tolled along about two hours

late during most of the afternoon.

More than 50 issues were tossed to new high levels in the last hour, and

shares skyrocketed from 30 to

63 points, and two achieving the

500 mark for the first time. A wave

of profit-taking in the last hour, however,

diminished some of the gains, and

depressed a number of recent favorites,

1 to 5 points below yesterday's closing prices.

6,811,900 Shares Sold.

Total sales crossed the 6,000,000

mark for the second time, aggregating

6,811,900 shares, in contrast to the previous record of 6,714,000 shares

made last Friday.

Increased profit-taking movement was

stimulated by the extraordinary ease

with which the market absorbed the tremendous profit-taking sales yesterday.

Many of the gains were wiped out,

and a number of brokerage houses increased

their margin requirements in apprehension

of a technical reaction, which

increased the profit-taking during the last hour.

The Associated Press average price

of 20 industrial stocks, including

the 20 industrial stocks, including

to a record high at 252.87, and of 20

rails rose 2.51 points, to 153.30. The

tickler tolled along about two hours

late during most of the afternoon.

closing prices.

6,811,900 Shares Sold.

Total sales crossed the 6,000,000

mark for the second time, aggregating

6,811,900 shares, in contrast to the

previous record of 6,714,000 shares

made last Friday.

Increased profit-taking movement was

stimulated by the extraordinary ease

with which the market absorbed the

tremendous profit-taking sales yesterday.

Many of the gains were wiped out,

and a number of brokerage houses increased

their margin requirements in apprehension

of a technical reaction, which

increased the profit-taking during the last hour.

The Associated Press average price

of 20 industrial stocks, including

the 20 industrial stocks, including

to a record high at 252.87, and of 20

rails rose 2.51 points, to 153.30. The

tickler tolled along about two hours

late during most of the afternoon.

More than 50 issues were tossed to

new high levels in the last hour, and

shares skyrocketed from 30 to

63 points, and two achieving the

500 mark for the first time. A wave

of profit-taking in the last hour, however,

diminished some of the gains, and

depressed a number of recent favorites,

1 to 5 points below yesterday's

closing prices.

MRS. HOLLENSHEAD DIES AFTER STROKE

Washington, Ga., November 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. Lena M. Hollenshead, one of Wilkes county's beloved women, passed away at her home near Washington this afternoon, following a stroke of paralysis on Saturday. She was 70 years old and had been in ill health for more than a year. She is survived by one brother, Jackson Murray, of Lincoln county, and five children, Henry Grady and P. H. Hollenshead, of Atlanta; Mrs. Odell of Washington, and Mrs. Albert Meadows, of Beaver Falls, Pa. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday morning at 11 o'clock from her late residence, and interment will be in Resthaven cemetery in Washington.

C. W. WINGARD DIES AT WAYNESBORO, GA.

Waynesboro, Ga., November 20.—(Special.)—C. W. Wingard, of this city, died at his home here suddenly Monday night. He was in his forty-third year and well known here. He was born in Aiken, S. C.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Leroy Glaver, and one young son, C. W. Wingard, Jr.; his mother, Mrs. L. O. Wingard, of Aiken, S. C., and five brothers, Bob and William Wingard, of Charleston; Jim Wingard, of Beaver Falls, Pa.; Wingard, of Savannah; and Louis Wingard, of Atlanta, and one sister, Mrs. Bissell, of Aiken, S. C.

The funeral will be Wednesday afternoon from the Waynesboro Baptist church, of which he was a member.

Two Veteran Showmen Again "MARTY" SEMON TO MANAGE KEITH'S GEORGIA Under Same Company Banner

WILLARD C. PATTERSON.

M. L. "MARTY" SEMON.

BY ELMO HAMBY.

Two men who long have been prominent and vital figures in the history of Atlanta theatricals were joined together Tuesday under the same banner for the second time since the old Jake Wells school, with announcement by Willard C. Patterson, district manager of Public Theaters, and dean of local showmen, of the appointment of Martin L. "Marty" Semon, beloved Atlanta theater executive as manager of Keith's Georgia theater.

But once since the expiration of the association, which began when Mr. Semon first broke into the show business in Richmond, Va., under Mr. Patterson many years ago, have these two figures been allied under the same company although the majority of both men's experience and time have been spent here in Atlanta.

It is not Mr. Semon's first experience in Public management. He directed the destinies of the Forsyth theater for several years for Southern Enterprises, Inc., and continued when that company was absorbed by Public. When Public decided to close the Forsyth, their only stock operation in the entire country, Mr. Semon was offered his choice of several fine posts in other cities, but rather than leave Atlanta he left the employ of Public and later opened the new Universal house, the Capitol, with Mr. Patterson, who had come from the Metropolitan to take over the post of southern district manager for Universal theaters.

Explaining that his home was in Atlanta and that his interests were bound up in the city where he raised three gifted children, Miss Virginia Semon, now one of the south's best-known dance authorities; Wells Semon, a prominent and accomplished musician, and "Marty" Jr., who still is too concerned with school to think of a career, Mr. Semon, on resigning the management of the Capitol, refused several fine offers which would take him out of Atlanta.

In the meantime the great Public organization had induced Mr. Patterson to take over the district management here.

Mr. Semon will succeed John Smith, of Port Worth, Texas, who has been manager of the theater for several months since the departure of Rotare Eggleston, Mr. Smith, incidentally, has been accorded one of the most signal promotions given by Public in several years, according to Mr. Patterson. He will go to San Francisco to take over the managerial reins of one of the large west coast theaters, recently consolidated with Public.

Mr. Patterson announced that the change would be effective immediately.

M'GREGOR RITES

Cedartown, Ga., November 20.—(Special.)—Funeral services for H. B. McGregor, Confederate veteran, who passed away Saturday at his home in Rockmart, were conducted Monday afternoon from the home of his sister, Mrs. J. A. Wilson, in Cedartown.

Rev. Laska Sparks, of Rockmart, and Rev. M. H. Massey, of the First Baptist at Cedartown, officiated. Mr. McGregor, who was not married, was 88 years old and was survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sam Scott, of Texas, who is 90 years old, and Mrs. J. A. Wilson, of Cedartown, who is 84. He was a member of the Folk county rifles during the civil war and is thought to be the last surviving member of the Phillips Legion.

Mr. McGregor had large farming interests and was a prominent citizen of Rockmart.

Consult Your Nostrils
They Verify the Facts

No better evidence could be cited as to the presence of excessive soot and smoke than to consult your own nostrils.

Imagine then what happens to the furnishings of your home during a winter season when the air is laden with black smoke from your own and your neighbors' chimneys.

Semet-Solvay Coke will put a stop to that sort of thing. It is "the clean fuel" and VERY satisfactory. Phone us for more information.

SENATORIAL QUIZ INTO VESTRIS CASE URGED BY WAGNER

New York, November 20.—(P)—Senator Robert F. Wagner, democrat, New York, believes a senatorial investigation of the Vestris case should be made to determine whether the laws on safety at sea are adequate.

"It is obvious that the bodies which make the laws should investigate their working out," he said. "A senatorial committee looking into the Vestris disaster should find, first of all, whether the laws governing safety on the seas are adequate. If they are found to be lacking in any way it is the duty of the legislature to obtain better, more thorough laws."

In the second place, the committee should find whether there are adequate provisions for the enforcement of safety laws and whether they are working satisfactorily. If they do not, it is again the duty of the legislature to find the remedy."
